Wreck Hanoi R R Yard

By EDWIN Q. WHITE

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. bomber pilots reported wrecking a key rail yard and severely damaging a North Vietnamese army barracks near Hanoi Friday, while ground fighting in South Vietnam died down after American Marines seized a strategic hill.

U.S. military headquarters made no mention today of any American planes lost in the raids. Radio Hanoi claimed seven planes were shot down and several American pilots captured.

The U.S. Command said the Yen Vien railroad yard six miles east-northeast of Hanoi's center is "considered unserviceable" after Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs from Thailand bases attacked with 750 and 3,000-pound bombs. F105s also hit the Ha Dong army barracks four miles southwest of the Communist capital.

Air Force pilots from Da Nang in South Vietnam discovered a surface-to-air missile transporter carrying three missiles just north of the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam. U.S. headquarters said the 60-foot long transporter and two of the missiles were destroyed.

In an area 12 miles south of the zone, B52 bombers pounded North Vietnamese troop assembly areas and fortifications Friday night just north of three hills where American officers said the enemy had been preparing to launch an assault on a Marine post at Khe Sanh.

Marines won control of the last of those hills Friday after a 12-day battle which cost 160 Americans dead and 745 wounded. The Marines counted 577 enemy dead and estimated 610 others were killed by their fire and by U.S. jet planes and artillery.

Defenders of Hills 861, 881 South and 881 North — the last to fall — resisted fiercely until near the end of the Battle for the Hilltops. But enemy fire diminished to a flurry in the final stages.

There was speculation that survivors had pulled back into Communist-controlled eastern Laos through an elaborate, log-covered system of bunkers.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, visited the scene and said: "I don't think the battle is necessarily over."

HST NEARS 83 — Former President Harry S. Truman will celebrate his 83rd birthday Monday. The former senator from Missouri took office in April of 1945 upon the death of President Franklin D. Roosevelt and served for seven years.

"But the enemy has been set back and has suffered tremendous casualties," he said. "The Marines hit them before they had a chance to prepare the area."

A company of U.S. Marines also fought south of Da Nang Friday, losing seven dead and 14 wounded to Communists entrenched in fortified positions. The Marines reported killing one enemy soldier.

Near the Cambodian border, about 15 Communist troops wounded 25 Vietnamese civilians in a mortar attack and ground assault on the village of Trang Suc. Viet Cong casualties were not known. The village is four miles northwest of Tay Ninh City.

Navy pilots from aircraft carriers in the Tonkin Gulf claimed they damaged or destroyed 54 cargo barges, four trucks, two anti-aircraft sites and an ammunition storage area in a series of raids in southern North Vietnam.

South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Cao Ky was in Da Nang for a two-day visit to areas of recent fighting. He told newsmen he expects the Communists to try to open a new front in the central highlands when the weather shifts soon to a rainy season over the South and drier weather in the North.

Urban Renewal

To Be Studied

By CHARLES R. DOUGLAS

Procedures of the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency considered faulty by the Department of Housing and Urban Development will be fine-tuned early next week "item by item" with a DHUD official in a move toward getting local urban renewal on what the federal agency may finally decide is the right track.

Stanley Freeman, a DHUD field representative is due to confer Monday with the KURA to discuss every detail of a May 3 letter which was mainly critical on points of relocation of displaced residents from downtown's Broadway East project, and announced freezing of funds for upturn until federal officials are satisfied with cited conditions.

It was learned, meanwhile, that initial relocation required in actual start of the Uptown Project is at least two years ahead, and the KURA holds it is not now involved with any urgency in that direction.

After a conference with Freeman, the KURA will deal with contents of the letter signed by Charles J. Horan, assistant regional administrator for Renewal Assistance, at a Tuesday night meeting, and after that will have a statement regarding what lies ahead.

Both Frank A. Reis, who heads the KURA, and Eric Hemphill, its executive director, said points made in the letter must be discussed to final clarification involving both local and federal officials.

Horan's letter published on Thursday said that relocation problems downtown "clearly threaten the feasibility of your relocation plan for upturn," and it noted that Mayor Garaghan has indicated a change of plans for upturn.

Emphasized in the letter were the points that unless the KURA resolves the relocation problem and a decision is made as to proposed changes in the upturn plan "we must suspend all expenditures and activities for the upturn project."

It also added that until such problems as noted in the letter are solved "we could not approve any new projects in Kingston except those required to alleviate these problems."

Whether this could involve Mayor Garaghan's plans for rehabilitation in the Seventh Ward on a local basis, and involving demolition of city-owned buildings, might be determined at the Tuesday meeting.

If the Seventh Ward project could aid in providing needed housing, some say, it could be considered a "required" project and bring federal aid, possibly before anything is done up town.

Two Die On Albany Avenue; 14 Injured In Area Crashes

By WALTER S. CLARK

Three persons were killed in area accidents early today including two Ulster County residents who were involved in a spectacular car-tractor collision on Albany Avenue Extension near the Evergreen Inn parking lot.

A Dutchess County man lost his life in a grinding head-on collision at Hyde Park.

Ulster county's highway death toll was boosted to 13 for 1967.

Fourteen more persons were injured, some seriously, in other traffic accidents yesterday and today. Two motorists were cited for motor vehicle violations and two others are facing court action as the result of highway mishaps.

Killed in the Albany Avenue Extension crash were: MAURICE ODELL, 35, of Lucas Avenue, Kingston, and MARY JEAN CONTI, 32, of Forrest Glenn Park, Town of Ulster. Troopers said that it had not been determined which of the victims was driving the car.

Victim of the Hyde Park fatality was WALTER GEORGE WILLIAMS, 38, of 117 Pine Street, Poughkeepsie.

Ulster County Coroner William S. Keyser investigated the double-fatality with BCI investigators W. E. Wiedemann and Joseph Ventriglia. Sergeant Charles Bundschuh and Troopers James Fitzgerald and Jerry Brannard of the Kingston barracks of State Police.

A two-car head-on collision on Route 9 about three tenths of a mile south of Norrie Point Road, Hyde Park, Friday night claimed the life of Walter George Williams, 38, of 117 Pine Street, Poughkeepsie. Both drivers were injured and taken to St. Francis' Hospital.

Trooper Richard Spreen of Rhinebeck said the vehicles were operated by Hattie Dixon, 37, of 72 South Water Street, Poughkeepsie, and Robert Campbell, 31, of South Cross Road, Staatsburg. Williams was a passenger in Dixon's car.

Dr. William G. Thompson, assistant Dutchess County medical examiner investigated with troopers. He said Williams died of a fractured skull and internal injuries. Dixon suffered multiple fractures of the chest, leg and jaws. Campbell received fractured ribs, a broken ankle and cerebral concussion.

Trooper Spreen said Dixon was driving south on Route 9 when his car failed to negotiate a right curve, crossed the double dividing line and crashed head-on into the Dixon car. Breen said criminal charges are pending against Campbell.

According to Trooper John McMickle the tractor, owned by Colonial Sand and Gravel Co., and operated by William Quick, 24, of Stone Ridge and Kingston, was traveling north on Albany Avenue Extension at 3:20 a. m. when the car reportedly pulled out of the Evergreen Inn parking lot in the path of the tractor.

McMickle said investigation showed the car crashed into the rear left of the tractor and pushed 261 feet until both vehicles crashed through the front of the Family Cleaners and Tailors establishment at 783 Albany Avenue Extension.

Mrs. Elizabeth Sanborn, operator of the cleaners store, her sons, Mark, 20, and Jerry, 14, and Mrs. Sanborn's aunt, Mrs. Wilda Druce, 86, were asleep in their residence attached to the cleaners establishment. They were awakened by the terrific crash and discovered the front of the store had been caved in.

FATAL CRASH—Wreckage of a sedan and a tractor involved in the double-death collision on Albany Avenue Extension early today and damaged section of building the vehicles plowed into are shown above.

Both vehicles were virtually pinned under the fallen timber and concrete blocks that fell from the structure.

"We thought a train had jumped the nearby railroad tracks and crashed into the store," Mrs. Sanborn said.

The truck driver was taken to Benedictine Hospital by Doctors Ambulance Service. He was not seriously injured.

A collision at the intersection of Routes 23 and 32, Town of Cairo, at 3:20 a. m. today, resulted in injuries to Louise K. Jeannin, 45, of 140 Sherman Avenue, Rockville Centre, according to State Trooper V. L. LaPlante of Leeds.

The woman stopped her car for a flashing red light and then proceeded to cross the intersection when the vehicle was in collision with a tractor-trailer operated by Nicholas D. Marrocco, 38, of Box 303, Natural Bridge, who was traveling west on Route 23 at the time of the impact.

Trooper LaPlante said the woman was taken to Greene County Memorial Hospital suffering internal injuries. She was issued a summons by Troopers Robert Sprague and Albert Stanford for failure to yield the right of way. The summons is returnable at a later date before Justice of the Peace Harold Miller, Town of Cairo.

Two 15-year-old youths were injured at 3 p. m. Friday when the car in which they were riding went out of control and crashed into a utility pole off Route 385 about 1.5 miles north of Route 23, Town of Athens.

State Trooper V. L. LaPlante of Leeds said Paul A. Saccoccia, 16, of RD 1, West Cossackie, was driving north on Route 385 and attempting to negotiate a left curve when he lost control. The car veered off the left side of the road and crashed into a pole.

Saccoccia was cited by Trooper William Fitzmaurice for driving at a speed too fast for conditions. (Continued on Page 5, Col. 1)

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODY ISHMAEL

Monsignor James H. Fitzpatrick, one of the new breed of activist priests, is director of The Health and Hospital Division, Catholic Charities of Brooklyn. With the sanction of his superior, Bishop McEntegart, Father Fitzpatrick conceived and started up the monumental $60 million Catholic Medical Center of Brooklyn and Queens, and is a medical missionary to the sick and needy of every race and creed in one of the country's most populated urban areas.

Father Fitzpatrick believes that medicine should be taken to the people by the people. Less than 10 per cent of his undertaking is with government money.

His father, a New York fireman, died when he was 12. To get his education he worked as a detective at a race track and as a laborer on excavation projects for the Navy. His whole life as a priest has been in hospital work, which he feels is the forerunner of ecumenism.

Father Fitzpatrick says, "God created mankind for God, and God created man for man!" or as St. John said, "Little children love one another."

United Church Of Protestants Seen in Future

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — The dim outlines of a projected united church of 25.5 million American Protestants were in sight today. But the job of molding the vision into tangible form still lay ahead.

Guiding criteria for the process were approved by the Consultation on Church Union Thursday at the close of its sixth annual meeting.

It also directed a drafting committee to begin work at once on a concrete plan of union — the first step taken beyond the setting of principles and into the actual planning stage.

Ten major denominations are involved in the unification effort, the most extensive ever attempted since the Protestant break-ups began four centuries ago.

Guidelines approved to steer the drafting committee indicated the unified church would be structurally flexible, democratically governed, served by a varied ministry adaptable to the needs of members in their jobs and community circumstances, linked to all Christian bodies, and open to change, diversity and experiment.

"Because our world is characterized by rapid social change, a church which is committed to mission must be responsive to change," the guidelines state, "not only at the beginning of its life but also throughout its life."

Ecumenicity Is Theme of WSCS Parley

The fourth annual meeting of the Methodist New York Conference Women's Society of Christian Service will be held Wednesday and Thursday, May 17 and 18, at the First Methodist Church in Newburgh.

This year's sessions will be devoted to ecumenicity. Its theme will be Members, One of Another and among the special speakers will be Bishop John M. Fearn, Episcopal Vicar of the newly-formed Roman Catholic Vicariate of Orange-Rockland Counties. He will discuss ecumenicity from the Roman Catholic point of view. Dr. Philip A. Johnson, Associate General Secretary, World Council of Churches in the United States, will present the Protestant viewpoint.

Also on the program will be Professor Alfred B. Hass, Associate Professor of Practical Theology, Drew University, who will demonstrate ecumenicity through hymnology. Miss Dorothy McConnell, Associate General Secretary of the Woman's Division, Methodist Board of Missions, will speak on the subject "Hold Out Your Hand, Sister" and she, along with Bishop Fearn and Dr. Johnson, will participate in a panel discussion moderated by the Rev. Irving A. Marsland, Jr., minister of Grace Methodist Church, Newburgh.

The two-day conference will also include the WSCS annual business meeting, a pledge service, discussion groups and will close with Wesley's Covenant Service.

Member Drive Is Underway in Lutheran League

Last minute contacts are being made by members of the Lutheran Laymen's League, Mid-Atlantic District, to enroll interested individuals in the 1967 Golden Anniversary membership campaign.

The current campaign has a deadline date of May 15. Lutheran membership workers on the zone and congregational level are using the remaining days of the campaign to reach as many prospective members to enroll them in the league.

Directing the campaign for the district is Ewald J. Fuss, chairman. Last year the district enrolled 3,600 members. It is striving to bring the enrollment up to 4,327. As of May 1 reports received at the district office show a total of 2,670 members have been enrolled. Mr. Fuss is anticipating a flood of reports at the close of the May 15 deadline. He said that 11 zones are ahead of last year and three behind. In order to achieve the goal a total of 1,657 members will have to be enrolled.

George C. Bode is Lutheran Laymen's League representative in Immanuel Evangelical Lutheran Church, Kingston. Members of the congregation may enroll in the league, a service organization. Bode has enlisted the help of presently enrolling members to assist in enrolling others. At present 68 members are enrolled in the league at Immanuel congregation.

Episcopalians Consider War Stand at Conclave

One thousand Episcopal clergy and laymen from 10 lower New York State Counties including Ulster will discuss their church's stand on Vietnam, abortion law reform, games of chance for fund raising, and other topical issues Tuesday, May 9, at the 187th annual convention of the Episcopal Diocese of New York, on the grounds of the Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine.

The Rt. Rev. Horace W. B. Donegan, Bishop of New York, will address the delegates. Included in his remarks will be an interim report on the diocesan self-study commission, a representative group of church people chosen to examine in depth the role and function of all aspects of the diocese.

Starts With Communion
The day-long meeting will begin at 8:15 with a celebration of Holy Communion in the Cathedral. The business session will begin at 10 a. m. in Synod House.

Other questions to come before the convention relate to hiring practices in the church, financing of anti-poverty programs, and location of proposed state office buildings in a disadvantaged area of the city rather than in the World Trade Center planned for lower Manhattan.

Speaking for nearly 90,000 members, the delegates represent more than 210 congregations and affiliated agencies in the counties of New York, Richmond, Bronx, Westchester, Putnam, Dutchess, Ulster, Sullivan, Orange and Rockland.

THE PAPER WALLS

A number of years ago some needy miners and settlers in British Columbia, while in the process of stripping Ft. Alcan (which has been abandoned) of lumber, electrical appliances, plumbing fixtures, etc., made a very interesting discovery. While dismantling the jail they found mighty locks attached to heavy doors and two-inch steel bars across the windows. But all of the walls were made of clay and paper, painted to resemble iron.

Most of the circumstances and experiences of life that hem us in are not quite as bad, or quite as hopeless, as they seem. If we have the courage and the determination to do a little investigating on our own, we usually discover that we are not "locked in" quite as tightly as we had thought. If memory

Talk on Zen Slated Sunday By Unitarians

Herman C. Baptiste, president of the Fourth Unitarian Fellowship of Westchester County, will speak on The Way of Zen at the regular Sunday service of the Unitarian Fellowship of Ulster County.

The talk will describe the characteristics of this ancient religion and will consider some of its practical applications for Western man. Since the Second World War there has been such an extraordinary interest in Zen that it has become a considerable force in the intellectual and artistic world of the West.

Mr. Baptiste is currently serving as a director-at-large of the National Council of Teachers of English and is a member of the National Commission on Literature. He is past president of the Westchester County English Council and vice president of the New York State English Council.

During the past five years he has been awarded two academic awards: A John Hay Fellowship for the pursuit of studies in the humanities at Columbia University and another by the Commission on English of the College Entrance Examination Board for advanced studies in literature at New York University. These fellowship years included special work in philosophy and Oriental religion.

Mr. Baptiste is a charter member of the Fourth Unitarian Society and has been active in Unitarian affairs throughout the state. He is a teacher of English at the Fox Lane School in Bedford.

The public may attend the services at 10:30 a. m. The Fellowship meets at the Pickett House on Lohmaier Lane, Lake Katrine, adjacent to IBM.

Many Innocents of Viet War Lie In Anguish at Province Hospital

QUANG TRI, Vietnam (AP) — Inside the dingy, dimly lit province hospital, the innocents and not-so-innocents of the Vietnam war lie in pain and anguish.

Their wounds, burns and missing limbs are testimony to the intensity of the conflict. Thousands more like them are spread through civilian hospitals elsewhere in Vietnam.

Pitiful Sight
"When you first go through the wards, it's almost enough to make an instant dove out of you," a U.S. Army officer warned one visitor bound for the hospital. "But you will find that most of them were hit by Viet Cong fire or just got caught up in some Viet Cong attack. A good share probably doesn't even know which side hurt them."

In one bed a girl is huddled, her body badly burned. Other members of the family are nearby in much the same condition. Their house burned around their heads after an American helicopter crashed and caught fire. Inside the burned home, government troops found a Viet Cong machine gun.

Quang Tri's hospital, the only one in the province, was built to handle 350 patients. It has 450 plus mothers and children who sleep sometimes up to four to a bed while a wounded member of the family recovers.

Cries of pain and despair are rarities.

"Guts, that's what these people have got. Real Guts," says CPO William Green, Graybull, Wyo., a member of the U.S. Navy medical team assigned here.

He pointed to a shy, solemn-eyed girl whose bandages were being changed.

A Viet Cong mortar shell, fired into her home on the outskirts of Quang Tri City, had killed her parents and wounded her two sisters. Thanh, 10, lost a large part of forearm and a section of her hip bone. Bandages covered shrapnel wounds on her head, legs and body.

She had walked unaided into the room where the dressings are changed from her second-floor bed in another building.

Next to her in the room was a government militiaman holding his 4-year-old son. A hunk of steel from another Viet Cong mortar had passed through the child's head, Dr. Knox Pittard.

Dr. Gnade is a former minister of the Walden Reformed Church and well known in the southern Ulster area.

These films will be shown on the fifth Sunday night of each quarter. Following each film, there will be refreshments and fellowship. All young people of the area and their counselors may attend.

Films and dates are July 30, 7:30 p. m., Teenage Rock; Oct. 29, 7 p. m., Going Steady; Dec. 31, 10:15 p. m., Worlds Apart and Jan. 29, 7 p. m., Preacher's Kid.

Young people of the church will hike to Hanover Mountain May 20.

Pastor's Wife Is Lutheran Delegate

Mrs. Carl Goette, wife of the pastor of Immanuel Lutheran Church will attend the silver anniversary convention of the Lutheran Women's Missionary League, Atlantic District, at the Statler Hilton Hotel in Boston, Mass., on May 11 and 12. Mrs. Goette is the Christian growth chairman of the Albany Zone of the missionary league. The convention theme will be Let Christ's Freedom Ring.

Dr. C. Thomas Spitz, Jr., general chairman of the Lutheran Council in the U.S.A., and Dr. Paul L. Maier, assistant professor of history at Western Michigan University and campus chaplain to Lutheran students, will address the convention. Dr. Spitz will speak on Freedom and Responsibility and Dr. Maier will speak on the convention theme.

a Navy captain from Anson, Tex., said the child would be blind.

Pittard heads the Military Provincial Hospital Assistance Program here. He and his men don't ask the loyalties of their patients. Friend and foe get the same treatment. Several patients discharged into the care of the police have been jailed as Viet Cong.

The sole Vietnamese doctor assigned to the Quang Tri hospital considers himself an administrator and confines his medical practice almost entirely to private patients or military men.

Nurses are available at night only in the intensive-care and obstetrics wards. The 46 Vietnamese nurses range from poorly to badly trained by American standards. Only a few attack their jobs energetically.

In one room of the hospital several cardboard cartons filled with clothes stand waiting for patients who are up and around or ready for discharge. Most were sent from a Houston, Tex., Sunday School class. A sister of Richard A. Start learned of the desperately poor condition of the Vietnamese peasants from the Navy corpsman stationed here. She organized the clothing drive.

Sandra's Spanking Reunion

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Australia's favorite stowaway was greeted with a handshake, a hug, a huge kiss and a spanking when she finally met her man.

"I've been wanting to do that," said her boy friend, Coast Guardman Bernard (Bud) Brewer, 23, as he finished swatting the little blonde, Sandra Hilder, 20.

Father Lax?
"Even my father never did that!" she yelled.

"Maybe your father should have," added Brewer, laughing.

That was the way it went Thursday night after the blonde finally arrived from Australia.

The Long Beach Independent Press-Telegram reported the meeting in a copyrighted story.

The young school teacher stowed away for a time aboard the U.S. Navy's guided-missile cruiser Long Beach — by hiding in the admiral's private cabin — while it was docked at Sydney, Australia. She said she wanted to travel to California to see Bud.

After the initial greeting, and the spanking, the reunion continued in chit-chat and planning. Brewer said he has "the duty" aboard his ship, the Coast Guard icebreaker Glacier.

Behind on Sleep
Miss Hilder said she didn't mind, since "I'm way behind on my sleep."

The rendezvous was arranged by the Long Beach Independent Press-Telegram, which had a chartered helicopter meet Miss Hilder at Los Angeles International Airport.

She arrived in Los Angeles wearing a white sweater and matching capris, carrying a purse and small bag.

She told newsmen "I will not get married," because she feels she is too young for marriage.

She added that her parents, in Long Beach, New South Wales, Australia, were "a bit amazed, but they're getting over it," concerning her American trip.

The pair met in Sydney last March when Brewer's ship went into port after a three-month stint in the Antarctic. She was headed for the vessel to gather material on the Antarctic for a school paper when the tall, handsome sailor spotted her.

Miss Hilder said her round-trip fare was supplied by Australian sailors. She came here by way of New York.

Newsroom Reaction:

Story Written for the WJT, But Will Never See Print

NEW YORK (AP) — Reporter Frank Szurow stood by his cluttered desk in the city room of the World Journal Tribune, looking at the Sunday story he had written, which now would never see print.

'Staved Too Long'
"I think a lot of the veterans realize it is the end of their newspaper careers," he said.

"With this you get the feeling that maybe we staved in the newspaper business too long."

Szurow was a veteran, with 25 years on the old New York Herald Tribune. But veteran or newcomer, most of the employees in the big blue and white city room said they felt much the same emotions when notice of the paper's closing was posted on the bulletin board — first shock, then a dumbfounded feeling, then a few tears.

"If it had to happen, today was a good day for it," said cartoonist Jerry Schlamp, a 13-year veteran. "It's beautiful out so I think I'll go for a ride, have a few cocktails and at least I won't have to listen to all the conjecture and silly rumors that's been going around here recently."

An hour after notice was posted, employees gathered in small groups or went about the jobs that had to be done to finish the paper's last editions.

"There is not a tear," said columnist Atra Baer, who worked on the Journal American before it became part of the World Journal Tribune. "Almost a sense of relief," she added.

But there was a great deal of wry laughter.

"Well," someone said, "here it is, happened again."

And Then Some Tears
And then, here and there, tears did appear.

Among the affected employees are such familiar names as sports columnist Red Smith, columnist Jimm Breslin, Society Editor Suzi Kickerbocker, Fashion Editor Eugenia Shepard, movie critic Judith Christ, Drama critic Norman Nadel.

Romney Hits LB On Viet Secrecy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Michigan Gov. George Romney says it will take election of a Republican president to guarantee that Americans will be told the truth about the Vietnam war.

The Republican governor said the Johnson administration is feeding the people "manipulated, inflated and distorted reports about the war."

In a Friday speech to the convention of the National Federation of Republican Women, Romney did not document his charges about government distortion of war reports.

But he scored administration policies on foreign aid, saying, "The people don't want a government that stumbles into international commitments that grow like Topsy."

"The people don't want a government that squanders American prestige, raising false fears and hopes by acting as a global policeman and global financier."

music critic Walter Terry and society columnist Frank Farrell.

Executives, the paper management said, will be kept on for an undetermined time.

"I started here as a copy boy for the World Telegram when I was 17 years old," said chief photographer Phil Stanzola, now 42.

At Bottom Again
"I worked my way up to chief photographer. I don't know what the hell to do with myself. At my age, how am I going to sell myself again. I've got a wife, three kids and a $17,800 mortgage on my house... I went right from the bottom right to the top and now I'm right back at the bottom again."

The city room was full of resentment about the suddenness of the announcement. Some employees reported hearing rumors before they went home Thursday, but few took them seriously.

And the talk in many cases had suggested the paper would be sold, or one of its backers would pull out.

Dear Abby

Some Joker Has 'Goods' on Her

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: For the last 2 months our family has been receiving magazines, books, records, rugs, and even a hi-fi set in the mails. We did not order any of this stuff and have no idea who could be sending it to us and billing us for it. It is undoubtedly someone with a sick mind who thinks this is "funny." Each time one of these packages arrives, I mail it back to the company from which it came because I don't believe in keeping things that don't belong to me. This is getting to be a real chore and I am tired of making trips to the postoffice, but what else can I do?

DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: When you receive a package you did not order, mark it "refused" and return it to the post-office. They will assume the responsibility of returning it. If you open it, technically you have "accepted" it, and must then return it yourself. Or you can write to the company from which it came, requesting the money for postage with which to return it. If they do not comply, hold the package for 30 to 40 days and then dispose of it.

DEAR ABBY: My boy friend bought me a beautiful lace bikini and matching shorty beach coat to go with it. I saw it in a window and admired it so he knew I wanted it. Now my mother says I can't keep it because it is not a proper gift for a boy to give a girl. What's wrong with it? And if that's not a proper gift please tell me what is.

UNHAPPY GIRL

DEAR UNHAPPY: Gifts of a personal nature (and I do mean bathing suits, lingerie, hosiery, and items of clothing other than a scarf or gloves) are considered "improper." A boy should not give a girl such gifts, and if he does, she should not accept them. (P.S. If you're engaged to be married, I take it all back.)

DEAR ABBY: I have a slight problem. The company I work for has instructed me to answer the telephone as follows: "Thank you for calling the Blankety Blank company; may I help you?" It seems to me that the "thank you" for calling the Blankety Blank company" should be on the other end of the conversation. If I am wrong, please tell me. I keep getting cut off in the middle of my greeting because most people think they have a wrong number.

PUZZLED IN RALEIGH

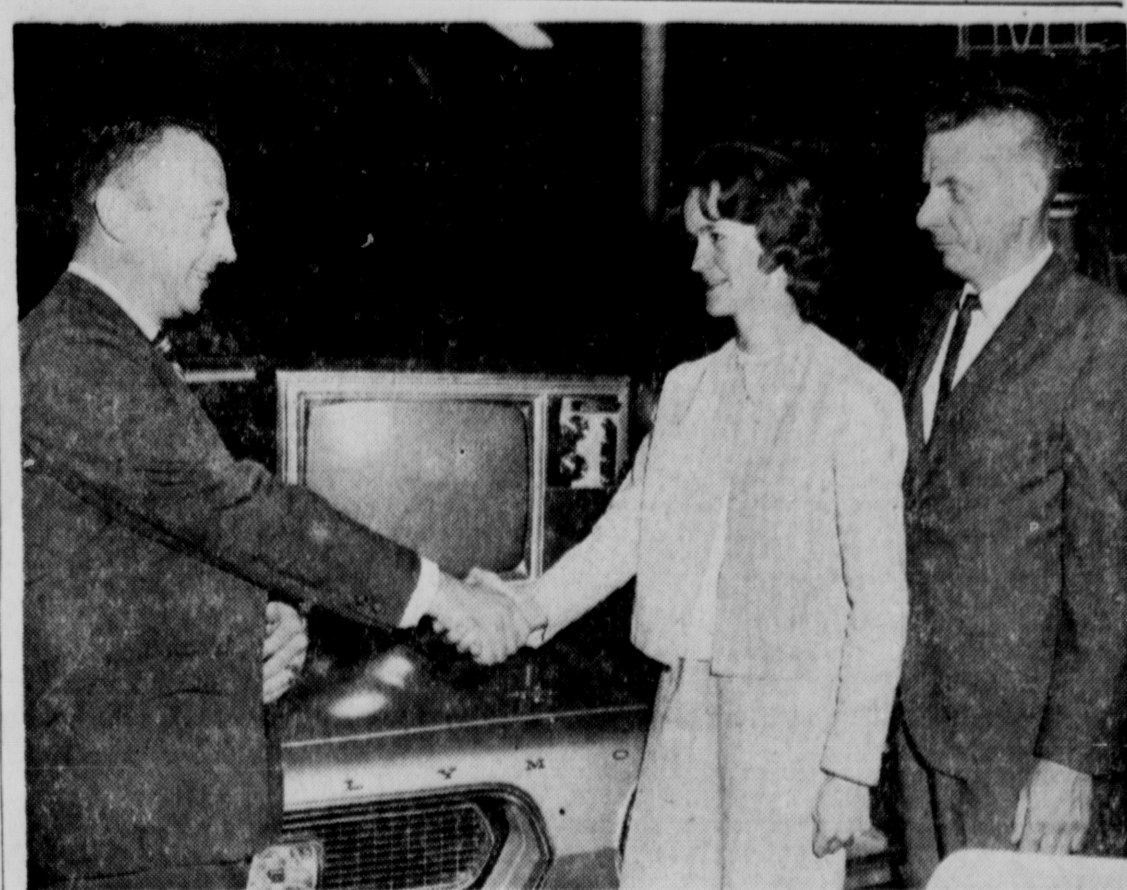

DEAR PUZZLED: I think you're right. Tell your bosses that your callers are confused by the "reverse English," that the first thing a customer wants to know when he calls is if he has the right number. If you want to thank him for calling, you can do it when you say good-by.

DEAR ABBY: The letter signed "Out But Not In" from a former mental patient reminded me of my own experience. I too, was a mental patient. And if I could shout from the housetops one bit of advice to those who have a friend or relative in a mental hospital, it would be: Write to them! As often as you can. Every day is like a year to them, and a letter from "home" is often carried around in a purse or pocket for months to be read and re-read. I was lucky. I had a devoted sister who wrote to me every day—even on her honeymoon. Best wishes.

SALUTE TO YOUTH

With so much in the news these days that causes concern over the nation's young people, it is a pleasure to note that this year more than 900,000 outstanding youngsters in the upper elementary and junior high school grades are participating in the School Safety Patrol Program.

Governors, mayors, police and school officials salute young people during "School Safety Patrol Week," May 7-13.

These public officials are pleased to publicly recognize this AAA-sponsored program because they realize there are few better opportunities for school children to gain a sense of civic responsibility than to serve as patrol members. They appreciate that there are few satisfactions deeper or longer lasting than those earned by the youngster who knows that he can be the means of protecting someone from serious injury or death.

School Safety Patrol duty calls for concentrated attention and split-second readiness when on the job. It requires the willingness to spend a lot of personal time assisting others and the unquestioned acceptance of duty no matter what the weather. It offers a rare opportunity for young people to develop leadership qualities by providing them the opportunity to shoulder the heavy responsibility of their classmates' safety.

Yet the value of the School Safety Patrol program lies not alone in its character-building qualities. Through the years, it has made one of the most tangible of all contributions to traffic safety. Since the patrols were first organized by the AAA, the traffic accident rate among school children has dropped nearly one-half, while the death rate of all other groups has doubled.

In New York State, the rate has dropped 70 per cent despite an increase of 175 per cent in motor vehicle registrations.

This dramatic reduction is due largely to the unselfish service performed by the young citizens of the School Safety Patrol. They deserve a salute and the thanks of all citizens.

UNIFORM TIME SEARCH

The annual confusion that resulted when various areas within a state adopted different times is all ironed out by act of Congress ordering uniform time within each state, which began with daylight saving time this month. As a result, 45 states and the District of Columbia are on fast time. Only Hawaii and Michigan legislatures exempted themselves. Alaska, Indiana and Kentucky are working out partial exemptions.

Hawaii has no neighboring states with which its time would conflict. Alaska has four standard time zones—Pacific, Alaska, Yukon and Bering Sea. It has a Federal exemption pending a change in time zones.

In Indiana, which was also exempted, 43 counties are in the Eastern time zone and 49 in Central time, all but 15 of which observe Eastern time the year round. Gov. Roger D. Branigan has asked the U. S. Department of Transportation, which is enforcing the time change, to put the whole state on Central time.

Kentucky also has two time zones, Central standard west of Louisville and Eastern in the rest of the state. Some communities in both sections went on daylight, giving the state four different time zones.

Kansas, North Dakota, Nebraska and Texas have petitions pending asking that areas in the western portions of their states traditionally following Mountain time remain in that zone.

Another year, and the whole country should be on uniform time, with time within each state the choice of the legislature so long as all is uniform.

U. S. YOUTH GAMES

Twelve American cities are cooperating this summer in initiating the first United States Youth Games for girls and boys between the ages of 10 and 15. The sponsoring mayors hope to make it an annual event held in a different city each summer.

The first Youth Games will be held in New York August 17 to 20. Teams of 82 youngsters each from the dozen cities will compete — Atlanta, Baltimore, Boston, Cleveland, Detroit, New Orleans, New York, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, San Juan, P. R., San Francisco and Washington. They will compete in bowling, basketball and track and field events.

Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York, announcing the competition, said that "The Youth Games should become the major sports event in the world today." Bringing together youngsters from different parts of the country for fully supervised sports competition and exposure to each other can become the founding of junior olympics, in which the country as a whole may one day compete instead of limiting the games to the initial dozen sponsors.

Regional competitions to select regional champions who one day will represent their areas in the Youth Games could become a feeder for the Olympics Games themselves and a great incentive to sports-minded youth in this country.

The Late Returns Are Finally In

Jim Bishop: Reporter

The members of the President's Cabinet sat around the long gleaming table, chatting, kidding, rolling pencils under the palms of their hands. President Lyndon Johnson came in suddenly from Juanita Roberts' office. The conversation died. Lawrence O'Brien was the first to get on his feet. The Owl had a sunburn.

The President nodded in all directions. "Gentlemen..." he said. The searchlight eyes swung to the Owl. "Must have been warm at the beach," said Mr. Johnson. The august members of the Cabinet broke into laughter. They know that the Texan works fifteen hours per day, and expects his "team" to work as hard. Mr. O'Brien smiled and shook his head. "Mr. President, he murmured, "would you believe my backyard?"

The Postmaster General will be fifty this summer. He is canny and cunning and candid. He has been in his post only two years, and may go down in history as the only man who ever comprehended the "kept woman" of the executive department and tried to make her honest. The Post Office has been a loser since the days of the pony express.

Normally, the office of Postmaster General is a political payoff. A good PG isn't supposed to ask questions about his department. His eye is on "The Hill" and "The Hustings." This one is different. He wants to know why we lose $1,200,000 a year handling eighty billion pieces of mail. He wants to streamline, modernize and reach a break-even point. Right now, it costs each head of family throughout the U. S. $24 in extra taxes to support the mail service.

There are 700,000 Post Office Department employees, practically all of them overworked, almost panicky. Sorting clerks work all night, averaging 40 letters per minute into 80 pigeonholes. Mailmen often arrive before dawn to sort their routes by section, by street, by number.

Each letter dropped into a box averages six sortings before it is delivered. The 75 largest post offices in the U.S. handle half the mail. The buildings are close to railroad stations at a time when they should be near airports. Once 10,000 daily trains carried the gray sacks. Now the mail trains are down to 900 a day and the air-mail flights are up to 10,000 a day.

One hundred years ago, clerks sorted the mail from bins to pigeonholes. The system is still the same, but the volume is beyond control; last year it jumped 5½ per cent. The appointment of postmasters is not related to efficiency: 33,000 of them get their jobs on the nod of a Congressman. O'Brien, the most popular man in the eyes of the Congress, hesitates to alienate politicians by firing a postmaster.

John F. Kennedy deepened the mess by recognizing 14 separate labor unions in the Post Office Department. As a result, Lawrence O'Brien must bargain with 24,400 separate units in the unions. Morale in the department is low because most employees are in the four bottom grades, with the highest pay at $7,267 per year. To achieve this, an employee must work 21 years.

The Postmaster General wants to improve service and erase the deficit. None of his predecessors was able to achieve either goal. O'Brien and his assistants are now asking blunt questions. Why should the Post Office sell stamps? It costs money. Why can't it be done in shops, in automatic machines?

Why can't stamps be cancelled with photoelectric ink? Why sell money orders in an age when most citizens have a checking account? In Detroit, an optical scanner now reads street addresses and zip-codes and sorts letters on a conveyor belt. But it cannot read script, only the printed word. It is imperfect, but it can separate 600 letters a minute against 40 by human being.

O'Brien has asked Congress for 70 of these machines, and they will cost $18,300,000. The floors of some post offices are too weak to hold the new machine. To defray some of the cost, Congress has been asked for a 1c increase on first-class mail and air mail, and 25 per cent more on 2nd and 3rd-class mail.

The Owl came out of Springfield, Massachusetts, and, when he wasn't selling real estate, he was organizing small political campaigns for the Democratic Party. He was director of Congressman John F. Kennedy's campaign for the U. S. Senate in 1952. Since then, he has been a persuasive political owl for two Presidents—Kennedy and Johnson.

At the Cabinet meeting, President Johnson noted that the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare needed three more Senatorial votes to insure getting a new bill out of committee and on the floor. He glanced up at U. N. Ambassador Arthur Goldberg. "Arthur," he said, "can you get me one?" The ambassador nodded.

Johnson glanced at the Owl. "Get me two, Larry," he said. And O'Brien marked it on his pad. It was done. Mr. O'Brien has never sustained a failure any job. The Post Office will better brace itself for an earthquake.

DO YOU REMEMBER

By Sophie Miller

I received an interesting letter from Saugerties, from Mrs. George Rosner which reads in part: It seems that she has the February issue of the 1967 National Geographic and on page 251 she read the following: "When 'Conch Pearl' swung close to Snake Cay, I rubbed my eyes at the sight of a sidewheel steamer floating on dry land. Intrigued, I rowed in for a closer look. Thomas A. Thompson explained it all in an air-conditioned office on the upper deck."

Mrs. Rosner quotes further from the National Geographic: "This is the S. S. Robert Fulton," he told me, "built in 1909 for the Hudson River Day Line between Albany and Manhattan." The boat now houses employees of an American company, Owens-Illinois, engaged in cutting and shipping pulpwood from Abaco's pine forests. "The Fulton was brought to Abaco in 1959," continued Mr. Thompson, operations manager of the enterprise. "We kept her afloat at first. But the next year we had some bad nor'easters, and a few of our secretaries got seasick at their desks. So we pumped sand around the hull. High tides rise in the bilge, and last year the hurricane shook us a bit. She hasn't forgotten she's a ship."

Mrs. Rosner of Saugerties concludes: This is from an article entitled "More of Sea than of Land: The Bahamas, and will perhaps answer the question, what happens to old Hudson River Dayliners."

Thus little by little all the interesting items and landmarks, we here in our Hudson Valley, Catskills and Kingston discard, someone somewhere makes a home for and welcomes them for useful longer life. Incidentally, this last week of April 1967, the parking meters on Broadway west were being removed. They were emptied first, and I was surprised how much money fell out of some.

I have a large size magazine called the New Steamboat, Robert Fulton, Hudson River or The Nautical Gazette, an illustrated Weekly building, Marine Engineering, Journal of Navigation, Shipbuilding, Naval Architecture and Commerce. The date is Thursday, June 17, 1909. It was $3 per year or 10 cents a copy. This

Inside the Robert Fulton they had paintings of historical points along the Hudson River, by Vernon Howe Bailey and Frederick W. Glover. One was an early view of the Hudson and the Catskills, and also an early view of Rondout and Rondout Creek. It shows our Rondout harbor with sailing vessels and a busy commercial place. They have a painting of Clermont, the home of the Livingstons.

The Robert Fulton was practically fireproof; steel, asbestos, even to the sides and trim of the cabins. The hull was of steel, divided into five water-tight compartments by four transverse bulkheads. The stanchions of each deck were of steel throughout. The treatment of the lunch room is ship cabin style, which admitted the use of quaint and pleasing form of joinery. This is the Robert Fulton side-wheeler discarded and now in use in the Bahamas for officers.

When I see the destruction of old buildings of brick by urban renewal of our town and stone, the like of which never to be built again, so it seems, and one wonders where everybody has moved, so many out-of-town, I wonder what the future holds for those who left, and for those who are still here. Will everyone find a new way of life, because of the dictators, and who will finally foot the bill, the coming generations?

WASHINGTON (NEA) — In government quarters and among responsible civil rights leaders there is kind of a despairing wait for the hot months of 1967.

From many sides have come forecasts that 10 or more large U. S. cities might be involved this summer in some degree of Negro rioting. Except for Cleveland Mayor Joseph P. Loefer's promise to crack down on young Negro gangs who take part in any burning, looting and other unlawful outbreak, little is being said publicly about coping with another torrid, violent summer.

Possibly the worst aspect is that even the modest-sized escape valves of earlier years may not be available this time. But for these, the painful events of 1966 in Chicago, Cleveland, Lansing and other cities could well have been rougher still.

In prime example, last year the Office of Economic Opportunity was able to lay out $34.3 million for various special summer programs in recreation, education, training and temporary employment. One way or another, perhaps, a million or more youngsters were enlisted in these programs and—in theory at least kept out of trouble much of the summer.

The stark outlook for 1967 is no money at all for summer programs.

Antipoverty officials figure that, reasonably, these undertakings ought to have around $40 million this year to have useful effect. But Congress, more conservative in tone than last year and troubled also by Vietnam war outlays, seems ill-disposed to vote the necessary supplemental appropriation.

The truth is, of course, that the whole notion of the anti-poverty war as a sort of loosely-structured combat cutting across traditional federal and city agency lines is in serious peril.

Substantial forces in Congress, with conservative Republicans in the vanguard, argue that the various poverty programs could be better managed if assigned to such conventional departments as Health, Education and Welfare.

Yet, as White House aide Joseph Califano recently made plain in a little-publicized talk, the Johnson administration is deeply concerned over ways and means of making the welfare and education programs in this already badly overburdened department more effective and more efficient.

Since enactment of major Great Society legislation in 1965, the President is said to have been aware that more modern budgeting, administrative and other procedures would be needed to make these sprawling programs work. Reports both here and from the field in recent months confirm that they are, in many cases, caught up in incredible delay and confusion.

A guiding principle of the new approach, fostered originally by Defense Secretary Robert McNamara, is coordination of effort across traditional lines. As with the ungainly problems of war and defense, so with the massive difficulties of the expanding (and exploding) U. S. urban centers. They call out for imaginative organization that shatters old lines.

The poverty war as fought under OEO, whatever its failings, is put together on a sweeping, unconventional pattern.

Last year, for instance, summer programs assisted by OEO were conducted in New York City alone by 323 separate community, neighborhood and block level agencies. No other outfit today is specifically authorized to step over customary boundaries and foster activities at those levels.

Altogether, 28 cities took part in 1966 in expanded community action programs for young people in recreation, camping, tutorial work, manpower training. Special swimming programs affected at least 200,000 children in 19 cities.

In Los Angeles County, including the Watts Negro area devastated by riot in 1965, summer programs last year were allocated almost $3 million. It was figured almost 125,000 youngsters would be helped—20,000 of them in Watts.

Chicago, torn by riot as it was, might have been worse but for a grant of more than $1 million in 1966. So it went through other major and lesser cities.

With not even the smallest of these many escape valves fueled with money this time, the nation waits apprehensively for the hot days to come.

The World Today Actual Fighting Over There but War Noise Here

By JAMES MARLOW

AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — This has been an astonishing two weeks, not so much for what was said as for what was illustrated — that the war is there but the noise is here.

In the grim war in Vietnam, Marines fought and died for a couple of hills and U.S. planes bombed MIG bases and missile sites. But in a sense the war has been not only ghastly but ghostly.

Almost Silent

The enemy operates almost silently, moving men, fighting, assassinating, melting into the jungle, reappearing, spreading death, dying, saying little, but determined to overcome.

U.S. forces there move quietly, too, although their deeds and daring are duly reported in the newspapers at home. But it's a war far away. Printer's ink is a bleak substitute for blood; a crinkling paper is not as impressive as guns.

Here at home politicians made us in sound what they lacked in fury. Democrats wrangled with Republicans about the war. Republicans with Republicans, like a frustrated kettle that has to sit on a hot stove and can only bubble and boil.

President Johnson, who might have been expected in another kind of war to give pep talks to the nation with vast promises of retaliation and annihilation for the enemy, has been restrained.

Restraint Imposed

The restraint was imposed on him by the nature of the war and the criticism at home.

It's a limited war with no intention of invading North Vietnam. Thus Johnson can't talk of conquest. He can only talk of driving the enemy back into North Vietnam.

With all the criticism heaped on him, Johnson could have chosen to go after his critics with angry attacks and talks to the nation on television. But he decided to play it in a low key, perhaps to avoid more criticism.

But the critics keep going. Yet there is no evidence they have denied his determination to see the war through to a little. At times he seems to operate as quietly as Hanoi.

Cite Promise

Anyone who thinks Johnson can be deterred had better remember the promise he made two years ago when Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, wanted more than the 60,000 men he had then.

"We have met and taken action to meet the requests made by Gen. Westmoreland," Johnson said in 1965, "and as other needs appear we will promptly meet them." And he added: "We do not intend to let up until the aggression ceases."

Now the U.S. forces in Vietnam number about 440,000. Just a week ago in this country Westmoreland indicated he needed still more men but was vague on how many.

At a news conference this week Johnson, too, was vague about when and how many more men will be sent to the war. But, in view of his promise in 1965, there can be no doubt more will be sent.

Critics Not Shy

But it was the critics, never shy, who almost reached the screaming stage these past two weeks and for a couple of unusual reasons.

While he was here Westmoreland complained criticism at home encouraged the enemy to keep on fighting. This put the critics on the defensive for a change, judging from the intensity of their reaction, at least among Democrats.

The pro-Johnson Democrats couldn't endure this, and sprang to his defense. The result was a Democratic veil made match. Not to be outdone, this week the Republicans canibalized one another while trying to decide whether they could agree on the war.

It was deafening, but hardly enlightening, and it wound up being a study in futility for there is no sign it had any effect on Johnson at all.

Mao Tse-tung's loss of prestige and allies in the Communist world might be painful enough but his public quarrel with North Korea must be a particularly bitter pill to swallow.

North Korea owes its very existence to Red China. Until the outbreak of Peking's cultural revolution, the two countries were considered as the closest allies in Asia and in Communist ranks.

Now Pyongyang's strongman, Kim Il-sung, is flirting with the Russians while Mao, left out in the cold, heaps abuse on his recent "comrade in arms."

Kim has even made an agreement with Cuba's Fidel Castro to act as a neutral "revolutionary bloc" in the escalating conflict between Russia and Red China.

With the loss of Korea and the Communist parties of Japan, Indonesia and India, Mao Tse-tung finds himself completely isolated even in Asia.

He still retains allegiance of a strong group in North Vietnam that has recently managed to clip the wings of Hanoi's strongly pro-Russian leader, Ho Chi Minh. But how much longer will even the pro-Chinese clique be able to fight Mao's war against "American imperialism" to the last Vietnamese?

The rift between Red China and North Korea was first made public at the beginning of this year. It seems that the indiscretion of Mao's Red Guards of accusing Kim Il-sung of antirevolutionary revisionism in a Moscow was more than the North Koreans would take.

They angrily denounced "false Red Guard propaganda" and called for the immediate end of the "defamatory campaign" waged in Peking.

BABSON on BUSINESS

By ROGER W. BABSON

WHAT LIES AHEAD FOR LIVING COSTS

BABSON PARK, Mass., May 6—You'll be paying 2.5 per cent more for consumer goods and services by the end of this year than you were at the beginning. That's what the government economists predict, and it looks as though they may be right on the button. Or very, very close to it. Here are some of the reasons the forecast seems to be logical, even if a trifle discouraging to the householder.

Recent Living-cost Slowdowns Temporary

Since last fall consumer prices have been comparatively stable, enough so to make the Pollakians hope that the buying power of their pocketbooks might grow stronger. But most of the slowdown has been due to lower prices in certain foods—such as eggs, fruits, vegetables, and pork. This has tended to offset to a fair degree the basic increase in most other prime goods and services. But the cost of beef, milk, cheese, etc., is on the way up, and it won't be long before other foods follow.

Then the climb in overall living costs will be resumed. It won't be a mad inflationary runaway, but the advances will be persistent and will involve just about every item in the consumer price index.

The value of your dollar is going to be nicked away during the rest of 1967, and probably well beyond that. Some "mods" among the Administration will console you with the claim that this gradual price inflation will help to keep business strong. But you will feel it in the pocketbook; that they can't deny.

Items Heading Upward

Along with foods, there will be upward pressure on the price of apparel, shoes, gasoline, many household goods, and entertainment. It will become steadily more expensive to eat out, even at restaurants that have thus far sustained the "barzain" image. It is going to cost more for housing, whether you rent or buy. The promise of some softening in mortgage interest rates will not be able to balance out the continuing hike in building costs, insurance rates, and property taxes.

While medical expenses are not a regular family outlay, they are bound to show up when least expected and must be considered as a part of every budget. Over the past twelve months medical costs have skyrocketed over 8 per cent, and this may well be only a beginning. Doctors will keep raising their pay sights, while nurses are organizing to ensure steady gains as well as shorter hours. Naturally, all

Ulster Ambulance Corps Planned For All Groups

Organization of an Ulster County Ambulance Association with membership to include all paid and volunteer ambulance services in the county, to be prepared to work together in case of a disaster is being planned, according to Clifford Jones, operator of Saugerties Ambulance Service.

The proposal has been advanced by the Rev. Emmett Waite, coordinator of Emergency Care Education at Ulster County Community College, who suggested that all paid and volunteer ambulance services in this county should combine forces and set up an organization.

Several Groups

The formation of a county group would be with the cooperation of the Ulster County Medical Society, the Ulster County Medical Society and the volunteer ambulance associations in the county, Jones said.

An invitation will be sent out within a week to all paid and volunteer ambulance units in the county, urging representatives to attend a joint meeting tentatively scheduled for Tuesday, June 6. The place of this session will be announced.

After the organization of a county ambulance association a course would be set up at the local community college and an increase of paid and volunteer ambulance services would be finalized to help each other in case of a disaster.

Problems that confronted ambulance operators since a new law became effective earlier this year, were discussed at an enthusiastic meeting recently held by members of the Hudson Valley Ambulance Association at the County Office Building.

List Participants

Attending the session were Francis X. Tucker, legislative counsel to State Senator Jay P. Wilson, 38th District; Zane Vance of the office of State Assemblyman Benjamin A. Gillman, 95th District; Carmine J. Mandia, representing Dr. James Lade, director of emergency medical services, New York

State Department of Health; Supervisor Peter Williams, Town of Saugerties; Councilman Harry Snyder, Town of Rosendale; Mary Finger of Kingston Hospital and William Walsh, registered nurse with Don's Ambulance of Rosendale.

Gilbert E. Gray of Doctor's Ambulance Service, president of the Hudson Valley Association, presided at the meeting. Other officers attending were: Francis Fatum of Fatum's Ambulance Service, vice president; Jones of Saugerties Ambulance; James Gordon of Alamo Ambulance, Poughkeepsie, treasurer. Other HVA members attending were Donald DePew of Don's Ambulance, Rosendale; Michael Alamo of Alamo's, Larry Granger and Charles Rumsey of Middletown Ambulance Service.

Suggestions were made that, if possible, training of ambulance personnel be done in local areas with the assistance of the local medical associations. This proposal will be considered by Mandia, who said a reply could be expected from Albany soon.

Because of health problems associated with ambulance services, it was suggested that changes be made in the final draft of the New York State Health requirements to include the following: that as long as one member of a team on an ambulance was fully trained, the other member could be used without training as long as he had applied for an advanced first aid course and after completion of that course would enroll in an advanced training course conducted by the state or a course now taught at many community colleges.

Must Be Enrolled

It was emphasized that man must be enrolled in a training course within six months after accepting employment with an ambulance service. It also was pointed out that the state regulations would be governed by the Federal Highway Standard bill, now awaiting adoption by the federal government.

In the absence of Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick, who was unable to attend the recent meeting because of prior commitments, John Logan of the congressman's staff, said Resnick would examine the proposed bill and then he would express his feelings on the legislation.

"If Mr. Mandia is able to convince the State Department of Health that our request should be written into the requirements," Jones said, "our association feels that strides to help upgrade ambulance services and give operators a reasonable time to secure equipment which is essential and to review certain equipment now required that may not be an essential item."

Also being resolved by the legal counsel of the State Health Department is the age limit of drivers of ambulances and attendants.

Age Limit Set

The age limit requested by the HVA is that a driver be 21 years of age and an untrained attendant 18 years. It was explained that the reason for not accepting the age proposal at the present time by the State Health Department is the possibility of legal complications.

Commenting on the HVA session, Jones said, "All in all it was fruitful and showed a mutual feeling that the state does not want to cause any ambulance service to be forced out of business by regulations."

After the open meeting, a conference was held with the Rev. Mr. Waite, and Earl LaFin, past president of the Dutchess County Ambulance Association and incumbent coordinator of ambulance services in Dutchess County.

Others attending the second session were members of the Shawangunk and Rondout Rescue squads and many who attended the open meeting.

PHOENICIA NEWS

On Wednesday, April 26, at the Phoenixia Fire Station, the first course in First Aid was given by Red Cross Instructor, Charles Smith of Pine Hill. It has been decided that the night for First Aid Instruction will be changed to Thursday, instead of Wednesday, from 7 to 11 p.m. The next meeting will be held Thursday.

Edward Short of Mt. Holly, N. J., spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Winkowski who have moved from their apartment at the Phoenixia Hotel to their home on the Herdman Road for the summer. Mrs. Pable Torres and son Pablo called on Mr. and Mrs. Winkowski Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Czajka of Jersey City, are spending a few days at their home on Oak Street.

A teen-age dance was held by the Phoenixia-St. Francis de Sales CYO Saturday night at the parish hall. Music was by the "Intruders", under the direction of Lavell Van Etten.

On Wednesday night, members of the fire companies of the Phoenixia fire district, called on retired chief Mervale Jones, at his home in Phoenixia, and presented him with a wrist watch engraved with the appreciation of the service rendered while both a fireman and chief and dates of service to the fire company and fire district.

Parent Teacher's Association of the Phoenixia Elementary School recently awarded the "Jenkins Memorial Award" to Mrs. Leonard Ford, a teacher at Phoenixia School. This award is given to a person in the community who has rendered outstanding service for over a period of years. The presentation to Mrs. Ford was made by Mrs. Robert J. Maroney on behalf of the Jenkins Committee which consists of Mrs. Maroney, chairman, and Mrs. William Shoehar and Mrs. Harvey Heron, all former recipients of this award.

Mrs. Ford started school in the "Little Red School House" in Broad Street Hollow, Albany. A short time later they moved to Kelly's Corner, Delaware County, where she attended school until she graduated grammar school and entered the Margaretville High School. After deciding to take up teaching, Mrs. Ford completed her high school studies at Margaretville High School and entered the Oneonta Normal School, as the State Teacher's College was then known.

Her first assignment after becoming a teacher was back in the Little Red School House in Broad Street Hollow where she first started school. Her salary at this time was $900 a year. After her freshman year of teaching Mrs. Ford started teaching in Greene County and taught until her teaching activities were interrupted by her marriage to Leonard Ford of Shandaken.

She continued to teach for two years and stopped teaching with the arrival of a daughter, who is now Mrs. Daune Graham.

Next a son, John, arrived, who is now in the Army in Hawaii. After being away from the class room for 14 years, Mrs. Ford harkened to her first love and returned to teaching at Phoenixia Elementary School under principle Reginald Bennett, now retired.

After nine years of teaching in Phoenixia, Mrs. Ford transferred to the Pine Hill Elementary School, where she taught grades one to four all at one time. Later when the Ontario Schol system was inaugurated, Mrs. Ford returned to the Phoenixia Elementary School where she has taught up to the present time. Her retirement becomes effective in September 1967.

Mrs. Ford will keep in touch with her teaching profession by continuing to be available as a substitute teacher when a need arises in the school system.

Vendetta's Origin

The term vendetta originated in Corsica, where it played an important part in social life. It is Italian in origin, from the Latin "vindicare," which means to "defend oneself," according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

IEEE Elects Van Allen as New President

Members of the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers, Inc. (IEEE), Catskill Subsection, were guests of the Kingston Cablevision Inc. this week. A tour of the antenna complex on Popietown road in Esopus was conducted by two National Broadcasting Company engineers.

John Seibert of NBC explained the antenna system and the functions of receiving and amplification that is necessary to provide a strong clear TV signal to all areas being served by the Kingston system.

Fred Everett of NBC gave a detailed explanation of the history and overall operation of cablevision at Kingston.

In 1959 Community Antenna Television was started in Kingston. The system was completed in 1961 with 1,700 initial subscribers. This number has increased to 7,629 at this time. From 50 miles of trunk-line and cable the system has expanded to approximately 160 miles.

Woodstock which is a separate installation, has 15 miles of cable and 200 subscribers. NBC acquired the Kingston Cablevision system in 1966, and they are in the process of improving the entire system from top to bottom.

The Woodstock system, which is transistorized and includes FM capability, is expected to become the finest system in the United States.

Community Antenna TV has progressed greatly since its beginning in the state of Oregon in 1949 with a system serving 11 families.

NBC expects to keep improving the present Kingston system, coming up with answers to problems that will then be made available to other communities, it was pointed out.

The NBC engineers were introduced to the group by Leonard E. Waters, chairman, and William Krajci, manager of the Kingston concern. Krajci spoke highly of the competence of both Seibert and Everett who are top engineers in the field of TV engineering. They have been responsible for the installation of TV transmission systems, such as that on the Empire State Building in New York City and in other major cities across the country.

Fatima Secret to Remain a Mystery

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The fate predicted for the world in the famous 1917 "Secret of Fatima" is likely to be kept a mystery when Pope Paul VI visits the Fatima shrine in Portugal next Saturday, Vatican sources said today.

The secret has been locked up in Vatican City since it was entrusted to the papacy by a shepherd girl, Lucia dos Santos, who is said to have seen the Virgin Mary in an apparition. She is now Sister Lucy, a 60-year-old Carmelite nun.

Vatican sources said Pope Paul probably will wait a considerable time before revealing the written prophecy, scattered hints coming out of the Vatican in recent years indicate the secret is an optimistic prediction of an epoch of growing universal peace—not a presage of impending doom.

On May 13 Pope Paul will fly to the rugged and once-isolated spot where Sister Lucy and two young cousins reported seeing a "lady in white" in six successive monthly visions beginning May 13, 1917.

The children said she asked for more prayers for mankind, especially for the conversion of the Soviet Union from communism, and predicted the global conflict that was to be World War II.

Lucia said the "lady in white" also gave her a message for the Pope, which Lucia memorized and later wrote down in Portuguese. She gave it to her bishop in a sealed envelope. The message was sent to the Pope with instructions Lucia said she had been given: that it must remain unread until 1960.

Pope John XXIII opened the envelope and read the message sometime between 1960 and 1963 and showed it to Alfredo Cardinal Ottaviani. Then, deciding the message should not be made public, Pope John revealed it. He died in June 1963.

When Pope Paul addresses pilgrims—more than a million are expected—on his 13-hour trip to Fatima next week, it is thought he may mention the Fatima secret in passing without disclosing what it is.

Cardinal Ottaviani, however, told a gathering in Rome last February that "morbid and alarmist" speculation about the Fatima message was "entirely false." The cautious, conservative Italian cardinal who directs the Vatican Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith also spoke of "the confidence, the message of Fatima inspires."

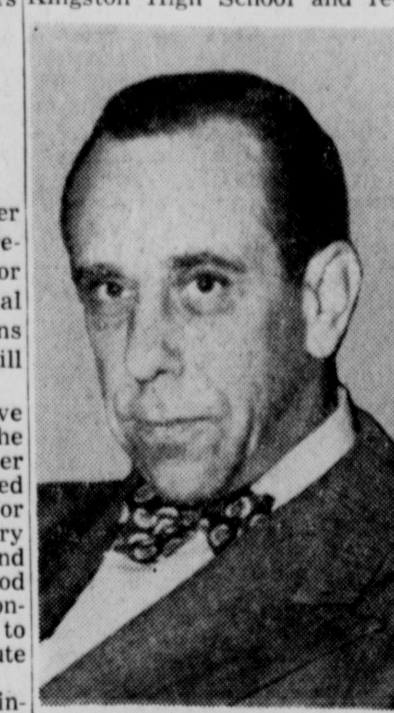

The Fatima site has become one of the largest Roman Catholic shrines in the world. It is built up with hotels, convents and other religious houses, including the basilica where Pope Paul will say Mass and pray for peace.

Health Front Topics LIVING (?) DANGEROUSLY—Deaths from motorcycle accidents in the United States occur at twice the rate for other types of motor vehicles.

The U. S. Public Health Service reports. Only five states require special tests for motorcycle operators.

WEIGHTY CONSOLATION—For people who can't get that waistline down, there's comfort in a finding by Dr. Alvan Feinstein, of Yale School of Medicine. For those who are well, he says, moderate stoutness presents no particular health hazard. For people who have a chronic disease, however, it's a different story. He still favors getting that waistline down.

DON'T JOSTLE, GIRLS—Right now there are about four million more women than men in the U. S. But the situation isn't all that desperate, figures released by a leading insurance company indicate. Because women live longer than men on the average, the imbalance increases with age. At 18 the ratio is only 1,067 to 1,000. At 65, it's 1,276 to 1,000. By the year 1980, according to the figures, the ratio in the over-65 group will be 7 to 5. (At least the odds are best at the age when it matters most.)

LONG-HELD WANTED DEPARTMENT—A new type of specialty, known as "family physician," will open to doctors when educational plans of the American Medical Association mature. The need for such specialists is a "major national problem," according to an association committee that investigated the matter.

BEHIND THE SMOKE SCREEN—A true-or-false quiz game, called "What's the Score on Cigarette Smoking?" printed on a handy little sheet of paper by the National Tuberculosis Association, wraps up some useful knowledge with a few minutes of entertainment. You may find some of the answers surprising. Ask your Christmas Seal association for free copies.

Carpet Magic

If you are a bride furnishing your first home, or a "Mrs." of some years, shopping for something new, different or better, you may share the same indication, says Phyllis W. Barlow, Extension Home Economist. Carpet color, texture and design can be a delicate problem—but armed with some general facts about the magic of carpet, the task becomes less formidable.

Choosing the design is an important step in the selection of rugs and carpets. The design should meet the practical needs of the family and also should enhance the beauty of the room.

A solid color rug or carpet becomes part of the room's background, permitting use of another center of interest, such as the fireplace, or a furniture grouping. Warm colors advance, making the room smaller. Cool colors which recede, making the room appear larger, are desirable in a room with a southerly exposure; warm colors may be used advantageously in a cool room. Bright, intense colors soon become tiring.

Therefore, grayed colors are usually more suitable for long time use, especially when covering large floor areas. Extremely dark or light colors show footprints and soil more readily than do the medium ones. Avoid a rug color that may make the other furnishings look old and drab. Choose a color that appears in other fabric furnishings, vary its shade or tint; the result will be pleasing and harmonious.

Textured floor coverings may create a subdued pattern through the use of cut and uncut, high or low pile. This adds a touch of pattern to the room without becoming a center of interest, permitting the use of a more dominant pattern in other furnishings. Footprints and soil do not show readily on a textured rug or carpet. The room may appear somewhat smaller than with the use of a plain floor covering. Tweeds also may create a slight pattern, and are best used with informal styles of furnishings.

A large, more dominant pattern in other furnishings may be used with a tweed rug or carpets.

Dominant rug patterns include stripes, plaids, florals, geometrics and abstractions. These become centers of interest and therefore require other areas of the room to be plain or very subdued in patterns take on a feeling of activity, and may soon become tiring; therefore, careful consideration should be given to their selection.

Patterns are usually more appealing if stylized rather than realistic. The size of the pattern should be in scale with the size of the room and the furniture; for example, small patterns are best in small rooms with lightly scaled furniture. Striped patterns are best in small rooms with lightly scaled furniture. Striped patterns give direction. They may make the room appear wider or longer, according to the direction of the stripes. An Oddly-shaped room may be made more appealing with the proper use of pattern direction.

Kingston High School Crowns Susan Potter May Queen

A ROYAL PROCESSION—Youngsters Ann Marie Erena, Louisa Netter and Billy Salzmann assist May Queen Potter in the royal procession which opened May Day ceremonies at Kingston High School yesterday. The queen and her court wore traditional Grecian type gowns for the occasion.

A QUEEN IS CROWNED—Larry Flowers, president of the senior class, and prime minister for the occasion, places a crown of roses upon the head of the duly-elected queen.

MAY POLE dancing has been traditional since the 17th Century. The intricate weaving of the ribbons was performed by the KHS students in honor of the coronation ceremonies.

MAY QUEEN Susan Potter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Potter of Port Ewen, reigns during ceremonies in Kate Walton Field House. One of her duties was to present each team captain with a rose. Her maid of honor was Miss Maria Carollo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albino Carollo of Lake Katrine.

Ceremonies Herald Spring Here

By

DOROTHY A. NAREL

May Day is a school celebration in this country. High schools mark spring's arrival with formal dances, theatrical productions and special activities for graduating seniors.

Long before Stravinsky wrote his famous composition "Rites of Spring," the fairest season has been ushered in with festivals and fun the world over. Two thousand years ago, the Romans held a week long fete commemorating the goddess Flora.

When the Romans occupied England, they took the festival with them. In 17th Century Britain, May Day traditions included dances around a maypole decorated with colorful streamers and flowers.

The maypole was one of the featured highlights of May Day ceremonies in the Kate Walton Field House at Kingston High School yesterday (Friday).

KHS May Queen Susan Potter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Potter of Port Ewen accepted a crown of roses from Prime Minister Larry Flowers, president of the senior class.

Miss Maria Carollo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albino Carollo of Lake Katrine, was elected maid of honor and the Queen's Court included the Misses Betty Barthel, Marcene Basch, Nancy Beckert, Suzanne Lyons, Candace Scott and Debby Steeger.

Music for the occasion was provided by the Kingston High School Band under the direction of Marlin Morrette. The May Queen presented each team captain with a rose and the Leaders' Club performed a marching drill.

All in all, the new season received royal treatment at Kingston High School. (Freeman photos by Kruh)

Cluster College Takes on Global Scope; Sophomore Class Studies at Asian Campus

STOCKTON, Calif. (AP) — The University of the Pacific plans to fly the entire sophomore class of its new Callison College each year to an Asian campus for a year in residence in an emerging nation.

"Education for global responsibility," university officials call it.

Next September, Callison will be the third "cluster college" added to the university. Founded in 1851, the University of the Pacific was the first institution of higher education chartered in California. It enjoys a reputation today for ranking with the foremost in fresh ideas for education.

Take Raymond College, which opened in 1962 to inaugurate President Robert E. Burns' university plan for coping with soaring enrollment by clustering self-contained, smaller colleges around the mother school.

The Raymond student obtains a liberal arts education in three years instead of four. But the years are longer — 10 months — and the prescribed curriculum more intensive. The student takes three courses during each of three terms each year, thus "going" nine instead of the conventional eight semesters. And class sessions are 60 minutes long instead of 50.

He studies mathematics and a foreign language, a sequence of physics, chemistry and biology, social sciences, and a humanities sequence including world literature, philosophy, fine arts and religion.

He gets loads of personal attention — tutoring sessions limited to three or four students, classes and seminars limited to 12 — and lots of hard work, but no grades. All he knows is that he passes or fails. Grades are supplied to the dean of students, however, in case they are required for graduate study or transfer.

The student, if he gets through, graduates with a bachelor's degree, ready to go into graduate school or the world just three years after finishing high school.

Elbert Covell College, second in the cluster, opened in September 1963 with an entirely different slant. It is thought to be the first Spanish-speaking college in the United States, and offers a four-year liberal arts program leading to a bachelor of arts degree in inter-American studies.

Half of the students come from Latin America, with all 20 nations represented. They and their U.S. counterparts share dormitories, cafeteria, social center, and classes. Sharing within a small group is the hallmark of the cluster college.

The Latin-American students are recruited, some with their education costs privately paid, others on a pay-as-you-can basis with scholarship funds making up deficits.

Callison College will extend the "live together" idea to the non-Western world by sending its sophomore classes abroad. Members of the Callison faculty will supervise the students, but nationals of the host nation will do most of the teaching.

Taking advantage of charter flights and expected lower living costs overseas, the student will have to pay for the year abroad only about the normal cost of a year's residence on the Stockton campus, say college officials.

Majors in Speech

DEBORAH B. CRESPINO, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony L. Crespino of 231 Clifton Avenue has been accepted for admission to State University College at Geneseo in September. She will major in speech pathology and audiology. Miss Crespino will be graduated from Kingston High School this June. (Photo Workshop).

The traveling student will return to Stockton — probably after completing a circle of the globe, says Dr. Burns — for his junior and senior years.

"We hope the graduates will then help build bridges of understanding between East and West," says Callison's provost, Dr. Larry A. Jackson.

"We believe that the Callison curriculum can free a man for meaningful living in his time."

Three more cluster colleges are on the way, Dr. Burns says. "The idea, patterned somewhat after Oxford University, seems academically sound," says Dr. Burns, adding that it already has been adopted by a number of other universities and is being studied by many more faced with expansion woes.

Each autonomous college has a faculty of 20 and an enrollment of no more than 250, no sororities or fraternities.

The university is a privately supported, Methodist Church-related institution.

Early this year, Dr. Burns, Dr. Jackson and Theodore Baun, a Fresno contractor who is president of the university's Board of Regents, toured prospective locations for Callison College in Thailand, Pakistan, India and Malaysia.

BETTY CANARY

Getting away from home for a couple of days is the stuff dreams are made of, most mothers agree, but the nightmare part is all the arrangements you have to make before hand. Just being sure the groceries are in, plus getting the sitter lined up, is enough to get you groaning.

Then, you realize the children's clothes have to be ready for school days ahead because you will be gone and therefore not available with last-minute safety pins and extra socks.

I flew to Cleveland last week, and a sure sign of our impatient times is that everyone I told said, "You mean it took TWO hours to get there?"

You'd think I had booked passage on a stagecoach.

Everything went fine and it was a beautiful flight. There's something so relaxing about flying — not the least of which is that you know while you are up there nobody will ask you to do the laundry.

Flying is still an adventure for me because, naturally, I don't get to do it very often, what with all those hams to bake and clothes to iron. But nothing quite takes the place of your very first venture into the blue.

Your first flight, or the white-knuckle trip as it is known in the trade, is something else. You can't pretend it isn't your first trip, because you tip your hand the minute somebody asks, "How are you going?" If it's your first trip, you usually answer, "With foreboding."

After your first trip, you usually don't hold on so tight. And you read the card with the emergency instructions with more nonchalance. Also, after the first flight, the stewardess doesn't have to tell you to get your face out of your lap and your arms uncrossed. That's only for emergency landing and she'll let you know. So, you merely swallow your Dramamine a half-hour before take-off, chew your gum with gusto as the plane rises (unless you like your ears to pop), loosen your grip on the man next to you, "These wings are constructed so they flap at least six to eight feet during flight," and, there you are ye olde seasoned traveler.

Diamond Queen Was Missing

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The modern American expert depends on several of the so-called wonder bids as part of his bidding system. One of these wonder bids is the weak two bid which shows a good six-card suit and six to 12 high card points. Most of the time the weak two bidder holds a hand near the bottom of the scale since if you hold 11 or 12 high card points and a good six-card suit you usually want to open with one.

South's two-spade opening was very near the bottom for that bid. North's jump to game was based on the hope that South would have a better hand or that a miracle would materialize.

East's double was all-purpose. He expected to set four spades but if West wanted to take out the double East could support any suit.

West left it in and opened the queen of hearts. East started by taking three heart tricks. When West discarded the deuce of clubs on the third heart East stopped to figure out the West and South hands. It wasn't hard to decide that South held exactly three cards in the minor suits. He needed six spades for his two spade bid and he had shown up with four hearts.

East saw that he could settle for a sure one-trick set by leading a high club. He also saw that if South held three diamonds to the queen a diamond lead might give him the contract. South could play his queen of diamonds, enter dummy with a trump and lead a low club. If East rose with the ace, South would ruff, go back to dummy and lead a second club.

Where was the queen of diamonds? East knew. If West did not hold a diamond honor it would have been a cinch for West to discard a low diamond. Therefore, East led the eight of diamonds. West's queen forced dummy's ace and eventually East collected a trick in each minor suit.

Back Puerto Ricans

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Apologizing in Spanish for speaking in English, State Rep. Robert Oliver said his bill to make every fourth Sunday in September "Puerto Rico Day" would "help build bridges of brotherhood."

"I feel that I can say, 'Ich bin ein Puerto Rican,'" offered Rep. Norris O'Neill.

"Ole!" voted the house, passing the bill Friday.

7 Arraigned In Court Here

In a short session of County Court Friday Assistant District Attorney Robert A. MacKinnon arraigned seven defendants before County Judge Raymond J. Mino. The seven defendants were named in indictments returned by the April grand jury in a partial report on Wednesday. All were confined to jail. The arraignments were for the purpose of ascertaining whether defendants were represented by counsel and if not, assignment of counsel. All cases were adjourned to May 10 at 10 a. m.

Robert John McGeeney, charged with third degree burglary and unlawful entry, was assigned Edward T. Feeney. Remanded to jail.

William James London, who along with Dennis Gregg Martin, was charged with third degree burglary and unlawful entry to a building (2 counts), said he would secure his own counsel. Martin was assigned John Lynch as counsel.

Raymond Sylvester Clardy, charged with third degree burglary (2 counts); unlawful entry (2 counts); attempted grand larceny, second degree; and petit larceny, was assigned Attorney Harry Gold. Clardy allegedly stole a car in New York, came to the New Paltz area where he ran out of gas and allegedly attempted to take a car in the Gardiner area.

Richard Lansing Wynkoop, charged with third degree burglary and petit larceny, was assigned Edward Greene as counsel.

Ted Eugene Kennedy, charged with grand larceny, first degree, and unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, had Joseph Hill assigned.

Donald P. Ross, charged with second degree forgery, said he would secure the services of Sherwood Davis.

The seven jail cases were among the nine returned by the Grand Jury Wednesday.

Imposition of sentence was adjourned until May 10 at 10 a. m. on Joseph Frank Torrisi who was found guilty of third degree burglary at Spada's Gun Shop on Broadway last Oct. 10, after trial before a jury.

Francis Martocci appeared for defendant.

Resuscitation Is W. Hurley Topic

Authorized Red Cross First Aid Instructors John O'Leary and Jerome D'Anneo of West Hurley, in cooperation with the West Hurley Rescue Squad and the West Hurley Cub Pacts, presented a program at the West Hurley fire house Monday night for the purpose of instructing residents in mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. Originally intended to reach as many pool owners as possible, any interested person was invited to attend. Another program, of a similar nature, will be presented in June at a date to be announced.

The program includes the showing of films explaining artificial respiration together with the opportunity to practice the recommended methods by using dummies. Literature explaining artificial respiration is also made available.

It is pointed out that with the increased use of home pools there is apt to be even greater need to know this life-saving method. While rescue squads may be available nearby, it is often the first few seconds that count and the life may be saved or lost while waiting for the squad.

Honor Spellman At West Point

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Francis Cardinal Spellman receives the Sylvanus Thayer Award from the U.S. Military Academy Association of Graduates today for outstanding service to the nation.

He will be honored at a brigade review and afterwards will address the corps of cadets at luncheon in Washington Hall.

Cardinal Spellman was chosen as the "distinguished citizen whose service to the national interests exemplify outstanding devotion to the ideals expressed in the Military Academy motto: 'Duty, Honor, Country.'"

Previous recipients of the award include former President Dwight D. Eisenhower; educator Dr. James B. Conant; Henry Cabot Lodge, recently resigned U.S. ambassador to South Vietnam; and the late Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Cardinal Spellman spent last Christmas with U.S. troops in Vietnam — his 16th consecutive trip to visit servicemen abroad during the holiday season.

Cardinal Spellman, who was 78 Thursday, is archbishop of New York and Roman Catholic military vicar of the U.S. Armed Forces. The latter is also a church title, which makes him in effect the bishop of all U.S. Catholics in military service.

He is a strong supporter of U.S. policy in Vietnam, and his outspokenness has made him a center of controversy. His church, St. Patrick's Cathedral on New York's Fifth Avenue, has been the target of peace demonstrators.

Ambulance Drivers Prepare for Stork

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — A University of Michigan obstetrician says traffic and suburban living means ambulance drivers and other emergency workers can expect to deliver more babies.

So George W. Morley, an associate professor of obstetrics, told emergency workers at a conference Friday to take these steps:

— "Admin local anesthetic — face the inevitable and talk to the mother-to-be in a reassuring manner."

— "Do not use force in trying to keep the baby back. 'Let's be professional; if you see she is going to deliver, do your job.'"

— "Guide the baby out, tip it down to drain mucus, flip the bottom of its feet to start breathing, use mouth-to-mouth respiration if needed, and tie the cord with a shoe lace, string or anything."

Draft Reserves Who Miss Meets

WASHINGTON (AP) — Reservists who have been skipping drills or otherwise failing to meet their military obligations can expect to be called to active duty beginning July 1.

The Defense Department said Friday it hasn't changed its plan to call up 31,000 delinquent reservists for up to two years of active duty. The action would affect 15,000 to 25,000 Army, 4,000 Air Force, 2,000 Marine and 100 Navy Reserve personnel.

The department is giving delinquent reservists until May 31 to reinstate units with vacancies.

Councils To Aid in Planning

The fastest growing county in New York State has begun to plan its own future.

Prescott C. Newell and Charles E. Raible, the past and present presidents of the Ulster County Community Chest have appointed a committee to organize groups capable of county-wide planning in the social service spheres. It is planned to establish councils to function in the fields of welfare, health, and character-building services.

The Chest's Planning Committee, under the chairmanship of Clifford A. Henze, has selected temporary leaders for the three councils: Family and Welfare Council — Robert A. Kurland, assistant professor of Sociology at the UCC College; Health Council — Richard B. Glazier, associate professor of Biology at the UCC College; Council of Character-Building and Group Services — Dr. Dexter O. Arnold, superintendent of Saugerties Schools.

Membership in each council will consist of representatives from all private or government agencies operating in the respective fields, plus all interested individuals from throughout the county who wish to participate.

Organizational meetings are already being planned. The family and welfare council will meet on May 10 from 7:30 to 9 p. m. in Britts Community Room in Kingston. The steering committee of the health council was conducted May 2, to prepare an agenda for their organizational meeting to be scheduled in the near future.

Seek County Representation
The council's objective is to bring together broad county representation from the group and individuals working in a field. Extensive invitation lists have been prepared but every organization and individual in the county is asked to come and participate in the formation and work of the one or more councils in which they have interest. The formation of the councils is intended to be a true expression of voluntarism and local self-determination. It is strongly believed that community planning should not be abandoned to government. Each council will decide its own structure, elect its own area of knowledge and concern and seek its own solutions to the problems it identifies. The councils will have available the recent report on Community Services by the Ulster County Citizens Survey Committee, but will be free to make their decisions based upon their own understanding of community needs.

Onteora Clinic To Feature Vaccinations

The Onteora Central Schools, in cooperation with the Ulster County Health Department is sponsoring an immunization clinic during May. Measles vaccine will again be offered. This is a live, attenuated virus which is given in one injection. Any child over nine months of age who has not had the measles should receive this injection. It should not be given to a child who is allergic to eggs or who has a family history of strong allergies. This is not a protection against German measles. This year any elementary school child who has never had either measles or the measles vaccine may, with their parent's written consent, receive the vaccine at the school. Also offered at this clinic will be a booster dose of diphtheria and tetanus toxoid. A booster dose is recommended at five years of age. For pre-school children diphtheria and tetanus toxoid combined with whooping cough vaccine will be available. Vaccination or re-vaccination every 5 to 7 years thereafter. However, a smallpox vaccination will not be given with measles vaccine. Consent forms have been sent home with kindergarten and first grade pupils. These are to be signed and returned to the school if the parents wish to take advantage of this free clinic. Any parents not receiving such consent forms and wishing to avail themselves of this offer should contact the school nurse-teacher at their child's school. Pre-schoolers in the Onteora district may take advantage of this free clinic and should be brought to their neighborhood schools according to the following time schedule:

Phoenicia School, May 11, 11:30 a. m.; Bennett School, Boiceville, May 11, 11:30 a. m.; Woodstock School, May 12, 10 a. m.; West Hurley School 1, May 17, 10:30 a. m.

Poppies Assist Needy, Disabled Vets, Dependents

VFW buddy poppies will go on sale on the streets of Kingston Monday. Commander Eugene Winter, of the Joyce-Schrick Post No. 1386, stated that the funds collected are used for the aid, relief and comfort of disabled and needy veterans, their dependents and their widows and orphans.

Funds also go for hospital and individual assistance and entertainment for needy veterans or service patients and their dependents. They go to rehabilitation, welfare and service work, for necessary expenses for military funerals of deceased veterans, for acquisition, improvement and maintenance of burial plots, and decoration of graves of veterans and service men.

The VFW National Home for widows and orphans of veterans at Eaton Rapids, Michigan, also benefits from the collection.

Locally, money left after the national expense is placed in the Post No. 1386 Auxiliary hospital closet—a project carried on by the ladies through the past 15 years.

Disabled Veterans Help

All VFW buddy poppies are the handiwork of disabled and needy veterans. In the hospital wards and hobby rooms of VA homes and hospitals all over the country, men in pajamas and bathrobes have been busy for many months making the artificial memorial flowers, symbolic of those who gave so much during time of war.

Men now fighting and dying in Vietnam, and their dependents, will be helped by the funds raised from the annual sale of the poppies.

Offers Advice On Tax Refund Check Cashing

Frank H. Kolts, vice president of Kingston area Financial Council, today gave information to the public which should clarify the confusion caused individuals and banking institutions in the cashing of income tax refund checks and other government checks.

In outlining suggestions made by the Council, Kolts said, "any check made payable to two persons should carry the individual endorsement of both parties named on the check. This applies both to State and Federal tax refund checks."

Kolts cited for example, "Let us suppose a check is made payable to F.T. and M.G. Smith. These two parties must sign the check individually, such as Francis T. Smith on one line and Mary G. Smith on another line, underneath the first signature."

Kolts further advised that refund recipients present government checks at a bank or institution where they are known. He cautioned that one should not give a tax refund check to another individual to cash.

Kolts emphasized the advisability of waiting to endorse all tax return checks until the payee's arrival at the bank where he is known to insure absolute safety as well as speed in completing the transaction.

Speirs Winner Over O'Leary Who Wiffs 17

By CHARLES J. TIANO (Sports Editor)

The Atlanta Braves might be happy to know that their draft choice Jim O'Leary of Dutchess Community College struck out 17 Ulster County Community College Senators Friday night at Dietz Stadium.

They might be a bit chagrined to learn, on the other hand, that he suffered a 3-0 shutout. And the win put the Senators in a tie for the Mid-Hudson Conference lead with a 3-1 record.

How did it happen? Well, Bob Speirs, a former Saugerties High school star, spun a 5-hitter and pitched himself out of one big jam the only time the Dutchess nine threatened to break through.

Dutchess loaded the bases with none out in the sixth. Speirs got the first out on a tap to the box, then fanned the next two batters—the only two Ks he had all night. He was in charge at all other stages.

Runs Are Tainted

Ulster's three runs were tainted but they counted just as much against the talented O'Leary who fanned the side in the second inning and got at least two other Ks in seven innings.

Lou Perry, who continued his sensational hitting for the Senators with three singles in four trips, singled with two outs in the fifth. On an attempted pick-off at first base, the throw got past first baseman Dean and Perry wound up on third. Frank Roselli walked and Perry and Roselli pulled off a successful steal as Perry raced home with the first run.

In the seventh inning, Boines led off with a single and reached third on DeRosa's error in right field. Perry drove Boines home with a single to make it 2-0. Perry advanced to second on the throw in and reached third on a wild pitch. Roselli then delivered him home with a long blast to the right fielder.

"Longest Out"

Roselli's shot was caught at the base of bank by right fielder De Rosa. It was easily the longest "out" of the season at Dietz Stadium.

Coach Di Bernardo was happy about the conquest. "You don't beat a pitcher like O'Leary very often," he said, "but tonight we put all the pieces in the right place. And don't overlook Speirs' pitching. He had it when he needed it."

Now 4-3 overall, the Senators host Sullivan Community in a night game Monday at 7 p. m. at Dietz Stadium.

Versalles Is Swinging Less, Hitting More

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Zoilo Versalles is swinging less and hitting more these days, and he's off to a glittering start for the Minnesota Twins in a bid to recapture the glory of 1965.

Two years ago, Versalles was the toast of the pennant-winning Twins as he won the American League's Most Valuable Player award.

Last year, hampered by a sore arm and two leg injuries, he never got started and wound up hitting only 249 with seven home runs and 36 runs batted in. In 17 games this year, he's hitting .357, second high in the league. He leads the Twins with 11 runs batted in.

Friday night, Versalles collected four straight hits and drove in a pair of runs with a triple and a single to lead the Twins to a 5-2 victory over Boston.

It was Minnesota's third straight victory and lifted the Twins into a tie for eighth place with Cleveland after a miserable start.

It wasn't a record for Versalles, who went 5-for-5 in 1961 against Washington and 4-for-4 in 1963 against Kansas City. But he thinks Friday nights 4-for-4 is more significant than those other two performances.

"Before, I would swing too hard," said the 26-year-old Cuban shortstop, now in his seventh full major league season. "This year, I'm waiting better. And I'm just meeting the ball—hitting it where it is pitched."

All four of Versalles' hits Friday night went to the right of second base—a far cry from past years when he tried to pull everything over the left-field fence.

Mardi-Bob Hails Versace as 'Most Improved'

By HUGH REYNOLDS Staff Reporter

To the mid-Hudson (area) bowling elite the idea of awarding Phil Versace a "most improved bowler" citation must sound as funny as naming Mickey Mantle "Rookie of the Year" any given season.

But it happened to be true in the Mardi-Bob All Star League at Poughkeepsie this season and so they had no choice but to award the prize to Phil.

A year ago, Versace finished with a 192 average. This time around he soared to a spectacular 218, a 26-point pickup as part of the most fantastic season ever enjoyed by a valley bowler. He hit 212 in the Mid-Hudson Major at Newburgh and 208 in the Dutchess County Classic.

Then there was that 813 series he shot in the Mardi-Bob for which he received a money clip. Add to this a pair of 289 solos and seven 700's. His 700 total was more than the rest of the league combined. He was under 600 only twice, a 597 opener and 518 struggle a few weeks later.

All-Time High

The 218 average, of course, is an all-time Hudson valley record. Versace also hits pretty good on strange lanes. Like his brilliant 2001 all events in the Schenectady Press tournament. He had strings of 672, 641 and 688.

Just Lucky—He Says

Versace took his gargantuan accomplishments of the 1966-67 season in easy stride. When asked for comment, he said: "I guess I was just lucky." This, of course, makes Versace a master of understatement. After one of his 289's (a solid 10-pin tap on the 11th ball) someone came over and asked him what happened.

"I choked," he replied.

Carlino Averages 200

While Versace's heroics overshadowed the field, Tom Carlino achieved a career goal with a 200.79 average with the Mid-Hudson Sprinkler squad. Tom finished fourth among the regulars. His late season surge sparked a fine run by the Sprinklers who flourished in the early going. The locals carried off both team high score awards a with 1144 and 3194. They also had 3172 for third place.

Gus Vaselekos took down the individual award with 290. Seventeen bowlers averaged 190 or better in the league.

Other members of the Sprinklers included Harold Broskie, recently elected to the Kingston Bowling Association Hall of Fame, who averaged 189. Dick Howard came in with 193. Tony Spada 183 and John Spada wound up with 185.

Spada Rolled 690

High series for the Sprinklers was shot by John Spada with a career high 690. He had a 265 solo in the string. Carlino's best was 268. Carlino knocked off eighteen "600" sets in the last 23 weeks.

Trailing Versace in the Versace, ran off with the pen-204.62 and Ralph Spadaro with 202.66.

Roe Corporation, anchored by Versace, ran off with the penant, finishing six lengths ahead of Shaker-Travis-Quinn with 64 wins and 35 losses.

The Sprinklers finished with a thunderous kick after their ragged start. They threw quite a scare into the league during one stretch, blasting over the 3,000 mark for six straight weeks.

(Final Standings)

	Won	Lost
Roe Corporation	64	35

HAPPINESS IS ROGER MARIS

Interesting Fellow Is This Guy Lolich

By BOB GREEN Associated Press Sports Writer

Johnny Sain, the tobacco-chewing old ex-Yankee who now serves as Detroit's pitching coach, was talking about Tiger lefty Mickey Lolich.

"He's an interesting fellow," Sain said. "He has an active mind."

"He reminds me a lot of Whitney Ford."

Which, of course, is nothing but bad news for the American League. Ford, still active, once was the scourge of the league's batters and the pitching key to the Yankee dynasty.

Lolich, inconsistent in the last two seasons, is off to his best start ever, 3-1 with three complete games, two six-hitters and a four-hitter after a 14-14 mark last season. He must be a big winner if the Tigers are to realize their pennant hopes.

He looked the part Friday night, and a lot like Ford, spinning a masterful, four-hit, eight-strikeout, 4-0 shutout of Baltimore. The victory kept the Tigers in a share of first place.

Chicago also clung to a share of the lead, beating Cleveland 3-2 behind Tommy John's four-hit pitching. Minnesota defeated Boston 5-2 and Washington stopped California 4-1, all in night games. New York at Kansas City was postponed because of rain.

Sports Car Buff

Lolich, 26, a sports car and ham radio buff, has a career high of 18 victories. His 14 last season was his worst for a full season. "He has a better than 14-14 arm," manager Mayo Smith has remarked.

Catcher Bill Freehan agreed. "He really had the stuff," Freehan said after Mickey's shutout. "He was throwing absolutely

"My best pitch," said Lolich, "was a flat curve—generally known as a slider. Except I didn't throw it like a slider. My control was good."

Lolich had some mild trouble in the first inning, then breezed in. He helped his own cause with a run-scoring single in the second and walked and scored in a two-run fifth. Dick McAuliffe had a solo homer in the third.

Barber Beaten

Steve Barber, making his first start since he and Stu Miller combined for a losing no-hitter last Sunday, took the loss for Baltimore.

Tommy Agee offered the key offensive support for John's four-hitter. John, a White Sox lefty, was in a 2-2 duel with the Indians' Steve Hargan when Agee started the winning rally with a one-out single in the ninth. He stole second and scored on Pete Ward's single.

Agee also singled and scored the tying run in the fourth. Zoilo Versalles had four hits and drove in two runs and Ron Clark hit his first major league homer, a two-run shot, in Minnesota's decision over Boston.

Camilo Pascual hurled a four-hitter and got home run support by Paul Casanova and Ken Harrelson in Washington's triumph over California.

Expect 100,000 For Derby Race

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The usual crowd of 100,000 spectators is expected for the 93rd Kentucky Derby today, despite some threats of demonstrations by open housing advocates and a forecast of showers or thunderstorms.

Churchill Downs officials announce the crowd as 100,000 every year.

Damascus, owned by Edith Bancroft, has emerged as the colt to beat, after other promising 3-year-olds were scratched because of injuries or poor showings in prep races.

Damascus, winner of the Wood Memorial in New York, was established as a 2-1 favorite on Derby eve.

Others entered for the $125,000 classic were Dr. Isby, Barb's Delight, Proud Clarion, Dawn Glory, Field Master, Gentleman James, Lightning Orphan, Second Encounter, Reason to Hail and Ask the Fare.

THANK YOU!

The Uniformed Fire Fighters Association, Local 461, AFL-CIO, of the Kingston Paid Fire Department, wishes to thank the following for their kindness at the recent Freight House fire.

Unearned Runs Help Overcome Saugerties '9'

John Kelly, Poughkeepsie High's talented right hander, shattered six hits and struck out nine to pitch the Pioneers to a 5-0 victory over Saugerties Friday at Cantine Field.

Three of the Poughkeepsie tallies off Covert and Ellis were unearned, as the Sawyers plunged to their fourth straight DCSL setback and 1-6 overall. The Pioneers are tied with Arlington for the league lead with 4-1 records.

Two Key Errors

Poughkeepsie got to Covert for three runs in the second inning after the side should have been retired. Schiller skied to center to lead off but Key and Kozak reached on successive infield errors.

Covert fanned Jones for the second out but catcher Schellinow singled to left and two runs scored when the left fielder bobbled the ball. Pitcher Kelly then singled home the third run of the inning.

Two Saugerties threats were snuffed out at home plate. In the first inning, Leone and Tirk tried a double steal with none out but Leone was knocked off at the plate. An inning later Nagy was snuffed out at home for the third out.

Perks and Silinovich collected two singles each for Saugerties. The only extra basers were doubles by Jones and DeGillo of the Pioneers.

Sutherland Is New Phenom With Phillies

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Gary Sutherland is 22-years-old and looks like the pink-cheeked kid next door, but already he's being compared to one of baseball's most scientific and successful hitters.

"He strokes the ball like Alvin Dark," said Manager Gene Mauch of the Philadelphia Phillies after the Glendale, Calif., native picked up two hits and boosted his average to .400 Friday night in a 3-1 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Mauch said he wasn't surprised at the fine early season performance of the University of Southern California business major.

"He can hit," Mauch asserted. "No, I'm not surprised. He has that kind of ability. You just never know when it's going to show itself."

Sutherland, who is a shortstop and played that position in the minor leagues at Chattanooga in the Southern League and last year at San Diego in the Pacific Coast League, is playing left field for the Phillies against left-handed pitchers.

"I intend to platoon him there with John Briggs," said Mauch. "When he hits like that you have to find a place in the lineup for him somewhere."

In comparing the 6-foot, 175-pounder with Dark, Mauch noted that Sutherland doesn't swing at the ball, he strokes it. He's a standup hitter who usually gets a piece of the ball. He struck out only 67 times in 1,072 times at bat in the minors.

Sutherland, whose father played in the St. Louis Cardinals' system and brother is in the New York Mets chain as a pitcher, hit .285 at Chattanooga his first year in pro ball. He hit only .254 with San Diego last year.

Red Hook Shuts Out Pine Plains, 7 to 0

Bill Cunningham pitched his fourth straight victory of the season for Red Hook, a 4-hit, 7-0 shutout over Pine Plains Friday at the Plains.

Red Hook supported Cunningham, a swift right hander who fanned 15, with three-run outbursts in the fourth and seventh innings. The Hookers star didn't issue a base on balls.

DeGraw and Woodward allowed seven hits for Pine Plains. Keefe, who triggered Red Hook's seventh inning rally, tripled for the only extra base blow in the contest.

Scheer, Pine Plains catcher, had two hits.

The Palazzolo children range in age from 1 to 17 and of its traveling in a Volkswagen bus they will pick up at Dublin.

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. removed a telephone from a woman's apartment in February, two months after it was installed. Nonpayment was the reason given in a suit filed Friday in Law and Chancery Court.

It said she has paid part of the bill but still owes $4,668.93.

Optimism Runs High At Monticello RW

BY ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Optimism and plenty of it was the keynote Friday as official members of the Monticello Raceway family gave forth some views about the 10th season of the Sullivan County plant.

The Mighty M begins operations next Thursday with its barn area completely filled, a $7,500 opening night feature and four (count them) perfectas, the only exotic form of wagering now permitted in New York State.

As Leon Greenberg, executive vice president put it, "we have our best horses and drivers ever ready for the opening and we expect to topple all previous records."

To celebrate its 10th anniversary, Monticello will feature a Catskill Resort Assn. pace as its opening night feature. Phil Tully, the new racing secretary, has eight side-wheelers ready to seek the major portion of the $7,500 purse.

Included in the field are Skipper Gene (Bucky Day), Niagara Byrd (Clint Galbraith), Danny Row Gil (Eldon Harmer), Pocomoonshins (Lucien Fontaine), Tactile (John Chapman), Sharon Irishman (Carmine Abbatiello) and Chris Time (Howard McCullough).

Sees Great Opener
"This is the best opening night race in our history and we are confident of a great race," Greenberg said. Despite the quality of the starters, it doesn't seem likely the first night record of 2:01.2, set in 1960 by the famed Tar Boy, will be topped.

Peering into the future, Greenberg said he and the racing secretary (Tully) are thinking of presenting a handicap racing via an electronic handicap concept.

"We don't believe the fans and/or the horsemen like a handicap race with one horse starting 25-28 years back just because he's a better horse. We hope to have a much better handicap system, one which not only the fans but the drivers will be satisfied with," Greenberg explained.

He mentioned two starting gates as one of the probable ways to present a handicap race. "We want the best horses we can obtain and if we can come up with a workable handicap system, we will get the most part with Roosevelt horses," Greenberg added.

Third Largest Track
When Monticello commences its season next Thursday, it will begin operation as the third largest track in New York State and the fifth largest, parimutual wise, in the country.

With fingers crossed for some good weather, competition for the most part with Roosevelt instead of the closer Yonkers Raceway, four perfectas and a nearly completed widening of the road coming into the track, the always optimistic Greenberg is seeing through rose colored glasses.

"We will have the horses and the excitement. I am sure we will also get the people," he concluded.

Sadecki, Old Meanie, Plunks Poor Wills

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Maury Wills was talking about his reunion with the Los Angeles Dodgers when someone asked him if he had any friends among the San Francisco Giants.

"No," replied one of the game's fiercest battlers. "Actually I don't believe I have any friends in this league. It's not any great hostility, but when I've got the uniform on it's every man for himself."

Less than 24 hours later, the Giants showed that Wills — in uniform at least — is no friend of theirs.

In the sixth inning of what turned out to be a 7-2 Pittsburgh victory Friday night, pitcher Ray Sadecki hit Wills on the right knee with a pitch and knocked him out of the front lines for at least several days and possibly a week.

"You can tell when a guy's trying to hit a man, and he was trying to hit Wills on the first pitch," Pirates Manager Harry Walker said after the game.

"Wills has been hot. They know he's been hot so they were throwing at him."

The Giants' clubhouse door was closed so no one was available to give the San Francisco version of the sixth-inning incident that led to a seventh-inning incident.

Hits the Dirt
No matter how it came about, Wills hit the dirt on Sadecki's first pitch, then got hit on the right knee on the next pitch.

He left the game two innings later when his knee started to swell. He also displayed a bruise on the inside of the knee, the same one that gave him so much trouble last season.

The 34-year-old third baseman, whom the Pirates acquired from the Dodgers during the winter, rapped two hits in the game, raising his average to .351. He has scored 12 runs and stolen five bases.

In other National League games Cincinnati crushed Atlanta 14-7, Chicago stopped St. Louis 5-3, Philadelphia downed Los Angeles 3-1 and New York nipped Houston 3-2.

In the inning after Wills was hit, the Pirates' Tommie Sisk, who pitched a four-hitter, fired a pitch that sailed over Hal Lanier's head. Lanier took a few steps toward the mound, and players from both teams rushed onto the field, but there was no contact.

George Spriggs and Donn Clendenon each drove in two Pirate runs while Matty Alou contributed three hits to a 14-hit offensive.

Edwards Raps One
Both Cincinnati and Atlanta erupted in a rash of hits, but the Reds — who had been shut out in their previous two games — won by including three homers

Explodes for Winning Runs In 7th Inning

New Paltz High erupted with three runs in the top of the seventh to stun Ontario Central, 3-1, in a UCL baseball game Friday at Boiceville.

The Indians were leading 1-0 on a 4-hitter by pitcher Charlie Smith when the Huguenots struck for three tainted tallies to square their league record at 3-3. Ontario is now 3-2 in conference play.

It was Smith's fault as much as anybody else that New Paltz was able to stage the last ditch rally. He had walked only one batter up to that point but suddenly lost control and nicked two batters in succession.

With one out, Moore hit Stanmyer and pinch hitter Schulte on successive pitches. He then got two strikes on Smith before the New Paltz right fielder looped a single to right field to score Stanmyer with the tying run. Schiller followed with an authentic double to the sector to chase the go ahead runs for New Paltz.

Last Ditch Rally

But the Indians didn't give up without a struggle. They managed to load the bases against Gary Lynch with two outs. Ganci went to 3 and 2 then blasted a long shot to centerfield where Schiller hauled it in for the final out.

Schiller led the hitters with a double and two singles. Zaccaro hit two singles. Waters had a single double combination for Ontario and Moore added two singles.

GOP Unites Behind Five Candidates

Republicans from the Towns of Lloyd, Marlboro, Plattekill and Shawangunk, meeting recently in Arconia, have selected and unanimously endorsed five prominent area men to run as county legislators from the new Ninth Legislative District which under the reapportionment plan comprises these four towns.

The Republican candidates include Eugene Noc and Fred Pizzuto from the Town of Lloyd, Brian White from Marlboro, Supervisor Joseph Martorano from Plattekill, and Eugene Corey from Shawangunk. These same five men were unanimously endorsed at the Ulster County Republican Convention recently held in Kingston.

In making known their selection of the five Republican legislator candidates, the Committeemen from the four towns felt that these candidates brought together a combination of youth, intelligence, political acumen and experience and that they could effectively represent the Republican Party in the coming election.

In addition to selecting the five Republican candidates to run for county legislator, the committeemen from the four towns also selected offices for the new Ninth Legislative District. Nelson Dina, chairman of the Town of Marlboro Republican Committee, was elected chairman of the new district. Dominick Martorano, chairman of the Town of Lloyd Republican Committee, and Seth Lippencott, chairman of the Town of Shawangunk Republican Committee, were selected vice chairmen. John Klein, chairman of the Town of Plattekill Republican Committee, was selected as treasurer and William Collins Jr. of Marlboro was chosen secretary. Jesse McHugh of Wallkill, vice chairman of the Ulster County Republican Committee, was unanimously named honorary chairman of the new legislative district.

Recreate Marine Flag Raising on Iwo Jima Island

"Mountains of America" was the theme of Cub Pack 33 at its meeting held last week at Saugerties Methodist Church. Den 1 opened the meeting with an impressive flag ceremony. The famous World War 2 scene of the mountain on Iwo Jima was portrayed as Bruce Chagois led the flag salute.

Cubmaster Frank Anderson led the group in singing a Cub Scout variation of "The Bear Went Over the Mountain." While Cubs adjourned to play games with Assistant Cubmaster Dave Jones, parents were told of the progress of the pack. There is a need for adding another den and requests were made for new den mothers. Plans were discussed for the circus theme in May and parents were given assignments for the month. Ideas for summer activities to continue the Cub program were also discussed.

Den 2 had a skit on the discovery of gold in the mountains of California. Cubs had made puppets and written dialogue on the problems of the gold rush at Sutter's Mill.

Following a number of songs and games, Den 1 presented a skit on conservation. Cleanliness of parks, streams and camping areas was stressed.

David Anderson and James Widdis were acknowledged as dinner and assistant dinner of Den 1. Den 2 had chosen William Brooks as dinner and Thomas Mehlisch as assistant dinner. These boys will help den mothers for a period of three months.

Den 2 led a candlelight closing ceremony and ended the program by singing "God Bless America." Following the meeting, refreshments were served by Mesdames Ridgeway, Cartmell and Jones.

Cheerleaders were played by: Marikim Moore, Debra Wartes, Kathy Baker, Sherri Clemmetson, Gina Greco and Virginia Trumppore. Portraying the baseball fans were: James Delmaga, Peter Beck, Donald Aldrich, Donna Bradford, Robert Gaylog, Jay Harris, Lisa Houghtaling, Steven Martin, Peter Martino, Lou Ann Resso, Susan Stilphen, Michael Trotter and Cheryl Vedder.

Garden Clubbers Hear Authoress On Hawaii Topic

"Getting To Know You, Hawaii," was guest speaker Mrs. A. Keith Smiley's program topic at a meeting of Saugerties Society of Little Gardens last week. Showing color slides and commenting on a recent trip she and her husband took to Hawaii, Mrs. Smiley afforded members and guests an opportunity to share the natural beauty and scenic wonders of the Pacific islands.

The guest speaker, a past president of New Paltz Garden Club, Third District board member for 12 years and authoress of the book "Tune into Nature," was introduced by local program chairman, Mrs. Frank Greco.

With Mrs. William Waldele, president, presiding at the business meeting, reports were given by the secretary, Mrs. Richard Guess; Mrs. George Sawatz of the membership committee; Mrs. Charles Schumacher of the horticulture committee; Mrs. Dorrance Baker for conservation; Mrs. Harold VanVoorhis of the Sunshine committee, and Miss Jane Zeigler on the Time-Ly Topic.

Serving at the hostess table for the meeting were Mrs. Schumacher, Mrs. William Cowley, Mrs. John Nolan and Mrs. Philip Crank.

The next meeting of the Society will be held May 10 at the home of Mrs. Donald Becker with a silent auction planned, work which each member should bring an item.

Mrs. Mills Named To Institute In Connecticut

Mrs. Hermione Mills, Remedial Reading Teacher in Saugerties Central Schools, is one of 27 accepted for the Advanced NDEA Institute in Reading at Southern Connecticut State College, New Haven, for a six-week summer institute. She has been notified that tuition is provided, as well as a weekly stipend for living expenses.

The institute is planned to improve the competencies of educators in order that they might provide effective leadership for reading centers and programs; improve the competency of reading personnel and administrators to enable them to organize reading centers; and to train reading personnel in the utilization of new reading equipment and materials. The institute will also provide participants with an intensive study of a reading improvement program which furnishes both small groups and individual instruction for elementary and secondary school pupils with reading difficulties. It also seeks to provide instruction and practical experience through class sessions, laboratory sessions and workshop sessions. The facilities of the new Reading Center at Southern Connecticut State College will be fully utilized.

Mrs. Mills will serve as Reading Coordinator for Saugerties Schools during 1967-68. Dr. Dexter O. Arnold, Superintendent of Schools, said she will provide leadership for a careful review of the current reading program and recommendations for improvement of the program. All levels, kindergarten through grade 12, will be considered in terms of remedial and developmental reading, he said.

Junior Misses Learn Good Grooming Hints

For the fourth consecutive year the Junior Miss Club for Good Grooming is being conducted at Main Street School under the direction and guidance of Mrs. Sibylla Strohsahl, school nurse.

Approximately 30 sixth graders meet each Thursday afternoon to explore in depth techniques of caring for skin, hair, and clothing. This club provides the girls with activity which supplements, extends, and expands upon regular classroom instruction which they receive along these lines.

Mrs. Strohsahl provides the girls with a scheduled program of discussions, film strips, movies, guest speakers, and quizzes to develop major points of good grooming.

Four Sing in Chorus

Four sixth grade pupils from Main Street School were selected to sing in the Middle School Chorus of the Ulster County Music Educators Association Festival at New Paltz Central School. Hanoi Displays Captured Pilots

SAIGON (AP) — Three U.S. Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs were shot down by Communist ground fire Friday during raids close to Hanoi, U.S. headquarters announced today.

All the fliers were listed as missing. Radio Hanoi, claimed that eight U.S. planes were shot down in the Friday raids. It said three of the pilots were produced at a news conference. Hanoi identified them as Cmdr. James Lindbergh Hughes, 40, of Iowa; Lt. (j.g.) James Richard Shively, 25, of Texas and Cmdr. Gordon Albert Larsol, 40, of Minnesota.

The three men, Hanoi declared, had taken off from Thailand bases, Hughes and Larsol from Korat and Shively from Takli.

The agency gave no details of how the planes were shot down or what condition the pilots were in when captured. It said the captured pilots were seen by numerous foreign and Vietnamese newsmen.

"Carousel," two-hour treat for the eye and ear, comes to television via ABC Sunday p.m., with Robert Goulet as Billy Bigelow. The lavish production, introducing Mary Grover as Julie Jordan to home screen audiences, features a star-studded cast.

'Carousel' Whirls Lovely Melodies Into Homes Sunday Evening

By EDGAR PENTON

"Carousel," beautifully mounted adaptation of the Rodgers and Hammerstein long-run stage classic, comes to home screen this Sunday evening, ABC, 9-11 p. m. Eastern time.

The two-hour colorcast, a visual and audio treat of the first magnitude, is sponsored by the same people who gave the viewing public the first "Armstrong Circle Theatre" special — another Rodgers and Hammerstein hit, "Brigadoon" — in two airings over ABC earlier in this season.

"If I Loved You," "The Soliloquy," "June Is Bustin' Out All Over," "You'll Never Walk Alone" — all the lovely songs are in the production, to set a whole new audience as well as old-timers humming once again.

The history of "Carousel" dates to 1945 when Rodgers and Hammerstein set Ferenc Molnar's Hungarian classic, "Liliom," to music, changed the setting from Budapest to a New England coastal town, and brought it to Broadway. Still running on Broadway at the time was their "Oklahoma!" which opened two years before.

Singer-actor Robert Goulet stars in the role of Billy Bigelow, the young barker from the traveling show who falls in love with Julie Jordan, Julie, the beautiful but naive local girl who yearns for a settled home and family, is played by a newcomer to stardom Mary Grover.

Producer Norman Rosemont is very enthusiastic about Miss Grover. "She could be an exciting and important star. She imbues the role of Julie with a freshness and vitality seldom seen and desperately needed in the musical theatre and especially television."

"Carousel" musical conductor Jack Elliott brought Mary Grover to Rosemont's attention after seeing her in a production of "Candide" at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Also starring are Pernell Roberts, Marlyn Mason and Charlie Ruggles.

Roberts plays Jigger Craigin, an irresponsible rogue with a penchant for easy money. This is his first television special, and third appearance in the medium since he left "Bonanza."

Miss Mason, who was with Goulet in the cast of "Brigadoon," plays Julie Jordan's dear friend, Carrie Pipperidge.

Ruggles is seen as the Starkeeper. Describing the role, he said: "He's a very gentle gentleman — a heavenly character — who gives no indication of being 'upstairs' except for a pair of wings. And when Billy goes to heaven, the Starkeeper gives him a last chance to right his wrongs on earth."

Other principals: Patricia Neway, who played the Mother Superior in "The Sound of Music" on Broadway, as Nettie Fowler, Julie's trusted cousin; Marge Redmond as Mrs. Mullin, the owner of the carousel who has more than a professional eye on Billy; ballet star Linda Howe, also from the "Brigadoon" cast, as Louise, and Broadway and London star Jack DeLon as Carrie's suitor, Mr. Snow.

"Carousel" was adapted for television by Sidney Michaels. "It is a timeless classic — a masterpiece, in fact," he said. "My greatest problem in adapting it to television was to keep hands-off."

"I wanted to be certain that the American public seeing it in their living rooms are seeing it with its original content and the authors' intent. I'm happy to say that virtually it is unchanged."

He added, "Molnar's original characters made the transition from Budapest to New England with ease. The leading characters and the chorus — sailors, millhands and fishermen — became new, vibrant personalities in their own right, and the play was transformed into a richly authentic piece of theatrical Americana, as full of the salty tang of New England as a Maine sea breeze. And that's all there in the television version."

Michaels can be considered an authority in his field. Among his recent credits are three Broadway plays: "Tchin-Tchin," starring Margaret Leighton and Anthony Quinn, and "Dylan," starring Sir Alec Guinness — both of which he wrote, and "Ben Franklin in Paris," which starred Robert Preston, for which he wrote the book and lyrics.

The "Carousel" costumes were designed by 27-year-old Bob Mackie, whose television credits include "Alice Through the Looking Glass," "The Danny Thomas 'Burlesque' specials, as well as "Brigadoon," "The Hollywood Palace" and "The King Family."

The musical is a two-period piece," says Mackie. "Carousel" is set in 1872 and 1887, fascinating periods to work with. For example, ladies' bustles were just coming in in the first year, and were on the way out 15 years later.

"We researched it all — the post-Civil War influence on fashions, the Victorian Age. And nothing has been spared . . . in cost or effort. I've had 30 people working on about two hundred costumes of both year-settings."

Music director Jack Elliott had a different problem: "To maintain the flavor of the music and yet make it Rodgers and Hammerstein circa 1967.

"Orchestral arrangements have changed stylistically in the last 22 years, and so have recording techniques. But 'Carousel,' of all Rodgers and Hammerstein properties, has aged the least."

"We're using a 32-piece orchestra, and have taken nothing from the classic, only made certain that the music is palatable today."

Art director Jan Scott ("Brigadoon" and "The Wide Open Door" for "AC Stage 67"), developed some of the most lavish sets in television history for "Carousel."

"We have beaches, amusement parks, old New England whalers, piers and docks," Scott said. "And the piece de resistance is the carousel, the focal point of the story."

"Finding that was a real coup. Today's carousels are made of aluminum and highly portable, so they can be moved from supermarket to supermarket."

"We couldn't go with a thing like that. We finally found a vintage hand-carved wooden one in Long Beach, Calif., and had it shipped to Burbank where the show is being taped. It needed a lot of refurbishing but it's a 'beaut.' There are 22 horses, two lions and two tigers."

A seven-time Emmy Award

nominee, Scott was kept busy supervising the art direction on the three sound stages used for the "Carousel" taping, and watched with interest the construction of "heaven."

"Although none of us has been there yet," Jan said with a grin, "the domain of the Starkeeper is truly beautiful."

Producer Norman Rosemont noted that "Carousel" is Richard Rodgers' favorite score of all the shows written by Oscar Hammerstein II. "And Bob Goulet and I feel the same way. We have wanted to do this with our own production company since 1960. At last it's a reality."

New York ballet star Edward Villella, who was on-camera in "Brigadoon," is choreographer, and is enthusiastic about his first behind-the-scenes television assignment.

"I've always felt as a performer that there's too little time to develop the dance. I will not allow this to happen as a choreographer. My dancers will have sufficient time to achieve artistic development."

Paul Bogart, who did "The Final War of Olly Winter" on television, is directing the Rogo Productions presentation.

In the years since it first hit the boards, "Carousel" has been revived on the stage many times, and was made into a hit motion picture starring Gordon McRae and Shirley Jones, released by 20th Century-Fox in January 1956.

A masterpiece that has grown in stature over the years, "Carousel" is a tuneful, enchanting harbinger of things to come in the "Armstrong Circle Theatre" series of modern musical classics.

TV Questions & Answers

TALL STORY — I can't help it if I like Don Knotts. He really sends me. But my friends say I would tower over him since I am 5' 7" and weigh 130 pounds.

L. R., Miami, Fla.

Without heels, you just make it. Don stands 5'8" and weighs in at 135 pounds.

PERCENTAGE — Lacking an agent, how does a person obtain the names of producers and editors interested in accepting the stories or ideas of amateurs?

J. W., Duluth, Minn.

To begin at the ending, there is no such thing as a producer who is interested in the work of amateurs, excepting for promotional purposes. Secondly, agents today are an important part of the business who, as the talent middlemen, are equally valuable to producers as they are to their clients. There is no problem getting the names of producers or editors from a program's credits or a publication masthead. But getting to these people is almost impossible without the help of an agent. Your first step should be in finding an agent who can get to these people for you.

HAPPY DAY — What is Doris Day's birthday, her birthplace and her real name?

T. R., Ft. Wayne Ind.

Doris Kepplehoof was born in Cincinnati, Ohio, on April 3, 1924, and at the age of 17, changed her name to Doris Day.

GETTING YOUNGER — Can you tell me how old Phyllis Diller is and if she looks and acts as crazy in real life as she does on TV? — L. T., Madison, Wis.

Phyllis is almost exactly the opposite in real life as she is on stage in terms of dress and appearance. She is well coiffed, and tastefully dressed, and although she is quite kooky, she never reaches the level (or depths) of her professional appearances. On July 17, the dynamic lady will reach the half century mark.

ONE TO GO — I have read that Andy Griffith is not going to do his show anymore, and now I see it listed for next year. Can you clarify this for me?

R. G., Miami, Fla.

Andy has said that he will not do his show after next season. He will be on next year, but that will be his last year.

CABOT'S CONDITION — My whole family was happy to see Sebastian Cabot return and we are wondering what his condition is now.

P. L., Ft. Wayne Ind.

Cabot returned a bit prematurely to work on the last few episodes of Family Affair. With the completion of the shooting, he went back to the hospital for an operation for ulcers. He's fine now.

SIR SHAGGY — I've read that mixed breeds of dogs are the best performers. Is Ladadog on Please Don't Eat the Daisies just a big old shaggy dog, or is he a thoroughbred? — F. J., Miami, Fla.

Ladadog is a thoroughbred Old English Sheep Dog, one of the rarest and most valued breeds in America. His real name is Lord Nelson and he is the son of Champions Bridewell's Beauty and Cheyenne Sam.

IS THAT A LION BLUSHING?

MGM Mistake Is Big Break

HOLLYWOOD — What happened one day in 1957 is now entered in Hollywood's big book of errors as "the biggest mistake MGM ever made."

It was the day William Hanna and Joseph Barbera, at the ages of 46 and 45, lost their jobs at MGM after 20 years of producing award winning cartoons such as the "Tom and Jerry" series, a seven-time Oscar winner.

The studio had eliminated its animation department over night.

"Television competition — we're economizing," they were told the next morning.

"So let us produce MGM cartoons for television," they pleaded. "We have several good ideas."

"No thanks," yawned Leo, the MGM lion. "There's no future in television for MGM."

Fade out. Fade in 10 years later on William Hanna with the wavy silver hair, a chin dimple that resembles a moon crater, a million dollar-plus bank account and a modesty that belies his creative force with Barbera as monarchs in the field of TV animation.

He sits at his desk in the high Hanna-Barbera building where 500 employees are at work on 12 half-hour series which add up to HALF of ALL the Saturday morning time (8:30 to 12:30) on ALL THREE television networks.

Huckleberry Hound, Yogi Bear, Quick-Draw McGraw, The Flintstones, the recent Jack and the Beanstalk special. Name a TV cartoon series and chances are Hanna and Barbera have produced it—27 series in all since that day in 1957 when MGM fired them.

Leo the MGM Lion is blushing and what MGM stockholders are saying can't be recorded anywhere.

It's all pretty amazing, this 30-year association between two men in a business famous for turning partners into rivals.

In a low, soft voice, Bill Hanna explains:

"We've been held together by a mutual respect for the other's ability. We've disagreed many times but we've always been able to resolve things. We talk over projects together and then Joe works with the writers and I work with the artists."

Bill finds their domination of Saturday morning television "very nice but embarrassing since you are competing with yourself on rival networks. If one of our shows outpoints another, we feel sorry for the sponsor and immediately start thinking of something new. Some shows must die, we had six new ones this year. Now we're thinking more and more about combining live action with animation for nighttime TV such as our recent Jack and the Beanstalk special."

Next year Bill and Joe will be in theatrical movie production, too.

Maybe, just for kicks, they'll even buy MGM.

"No, TV hasn't harmed your eyes, Mr. Ott—but those loud commercials have given you bloodshot ears!"

IF YOU FEAR MACHINES may gain the upper hand on people someday, you'll find no comfort in this new computer, which talks back when asked a question. Secretary Barbara Becka dials into the computer and receives a voice response over the telephone while a simultaneous printout of the message is flashed across the screen. The IBM audio response unit is equipped with a vocabulary of 1,000 most-used business words.

A BIG VOICE will go out from these giant 250,000-watt transmitters beginning in January 1969, when Voice of America broadcasts will be beamed through the Bamboo Curtain of Communist Asia. The coiled tubing carries the transmissions through the transmitter's harmonic filter cubicle, which suppresses interference. Examining the transmitters is Charles J. Affelder of the U.S. Information Agency, at the Hughes Aircraft Company plant in Fullerton, Calif., where the transmitters are being built.

Renewal Won By Star Trek Despite Stigma

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — If there is such a thing as a thinking man's television series, it might well be "Star Trek." Despite this stigma, "Star Trek" has managed to win a renewal for a second season.

The man behind "Star Trek," which takes a band of 21st century adventurers to new vistas beyond the stars, is pipe-puffing Gene Roddenberry, a former airline pilot and former cop, the producer-writer.

"'Star Trek' is the 'in' show with the college crowd, with the people who work at NASA, Caltech and the space plants," said Roddenberry. "We get letters from curators of museums and college presidents, all of whom appreciate our serious attempt to portray what space travel will be like."

Series that appeal to intellectuals are usually consigned to sudden death, and for a while it looked as if "Star Trek" would suffer the same fate. After fair ratings in the first weeks — new shows generally do well as viewers "shop" in the early season — ratings dropped.

"But then we started climbing," Roddenberry said. "I think the thing that convinced NBC to keep us on was the fact that 'Star Trek' ratings had the same profile as 'Bonanza.'"

Trade observers also believe the NBC decision was influenced by the fact that "Star Trek" was a prestige show in a season that was sadly lacking in prestige. And fortunately the series appealed not only to egg-heads. It can apparently be enjoyed on a pure adventure level by less enlightened citizens, as well as children.

"I believe it's possible to produce a series that can titillate the college professor as well as the truck driver," Roddenberry said. "We do that by giving the audience adventure with a social comment."

"And besides, the truck driver is a lot smarter than the networks believe he is."

THE WALL drama in the divided city of Berlin has died down recently, but the structure still stands and is even being reinforced by a second wall in some sections, as seen here. This "double wall" site is at the Bernauer Strasse border sector.

Man Beats Machine

A recent episode of Bewitched, in which three men had to talk with falsetto voices, was inspired when an electronic machine was brought to the producing company, Screen Gems. The machine, without any speed-up tricks, is able to do wonders in changing the human voice. One of them is to make it sound falsetto. But it was discovered that the actors' facial expressions were more realistic if they did their own falsetto. "It was one of the rare times these days when a man won out over a machine," said associate producer Dick Michaels.

Unusual Situation

Negotiations are under way with a sponsor that could result in a very unusual television situation. There was talk of doing a special about Ernie Kovacs, using bits and pieces edited from his nighttime series. But his widow, Edie Adam, wouldn't allow the Kovacs' material to be sliced up. However, in looking over the shows he did, everyone was so enthusiastic about the material, a sponsor is considering buying the shows and running them in prime time as a "new" series.

HOW TO WRITE A GOOD CLASSIFIED WANT AD . . .

1. IT'S always best to start your advertisement with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment or room for rent or property for sale, start your advertisement with the location and/or town or city in which it is located.
2. BE clear. Readers respond more quickly and favorably.
3. MAKE it easy for the reader-prospect to reach you, when given complete or definite information. Always insert your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, give a preferred time to have prospects contact you.
4. THE greatest reader attention can be secured by your advertisement by using consecutive insertions. Play safe—a six-day order is best and the rate is lower! You can stop your ad when you get results and the charge will be adjusted to the appropriate rate.
5. PLACE yourself in the reader's position and ask yourself what you would like to know (about your offer). The answer you give will make a good Classified Want Ad.
6. WANT ads that fail to bring satisfaction do so, not through any lack of readership, but because they are often carelessly worded and do not contain enough information to get prompt action.

IT'S DE HAVEN — Please tell me the name of the actress who plays Sarah Fuller on As The World Turns and some of the things she has done. — Emma Griffard, St. Petersburg, Fla.

Gloria De Haven has done so many things in her professional life that we couldn't possibly cover half of them in this space. Her parents, Carter De Haven and Flora Parker were silent film stars and young Gloria took to acting as youngster in 1940. Her debut was with Joan Crawford and Fredric March in "Susan and God," singer and dancer as well and in later years she became a has appeared in dozens of films with the likes of June Allyson, Van Johnson, Frank Sinatra and Mickey Rooney. She is presently active in night clubs and summer stock in addition to her work on As The World Turns.

NOT TRUE — I have heard that Davey Jones of The Monkees has been drafted. Is it true? — D. J., St. Paul, Minn.

Not so, nor is there validity to any of the other rumors about the draft calling on any of the other Monkees in the near future, according to Screen Gems, the boys' bosses.

SOME DAY — A short time ago there was speculation about Doris Day doing a TV special. I have read nothing more about it recently. Is it possible? — G. T., Great Falls, Mont.

Negotiations are still in progress between CBS-TV and a TV special and also for a Doris Day's business agents for series.

'Island' Finished

Now that Gilligan's Island is going off, star Bob Denver is free to do other things. One of them: the lead in "Enter Laughing," a play about Carl Reiner's early life, in Illinois.

Breadwinners

Females are usually the breadwinners in the lion family. Ladies of the pride stalk prey grazing on the plains at sundown, while the maned males stay on the sidelines until it is time to appropriate the choicest portions. Lionesses eat next and the cubs get the scraps.

Turns to Acting

If you are a TV credit reader, you have probably seen the very distinctive name of Bob O'Bradovich listed on several shows as the make-up man. Now he has turned actor in a most unusual way. He did the make-up for The Legend of Mark Twain, set for ABC-TV on May 15. In the last hour of the final day of shooting, an actor hired in New Orleans where they were shooting location work, had an epileptic fit. O'Bradovich stepped in and played the role to perfection.

Had to Lose

Sebastian Cabot has lost 76 pounds since A Family Affair went on the air. He recently bought a Jaguar XKE and kidded that he had to lose the weight to fit in the car.

How True?

When Dinah Shore and producer Joe Cates were flying over Russia on their way home from taping a two-part Coliseum in Moscow, Cates noticed Dinah peering out the plane's window and singing softly to herself. He asked her what she was singing, and she replied "See the Soviet From a Moving Jet." (Go on, you can set it to music too.)

Robertson Quote

Significant quote from Cliff Robertson as to one of the reasons he is happy he has never accepted a TV series: "I don't want to get in a one-character rut. Many times good actors I have known in New York accept series. I tune in at the beginning of the new season and think 'He's really working.' But six months later, if I tune in again, the actor is on a treadmill, grinding it out as best he can, and he can't help it. It's the nature of the business."

Strong Influence

Rachel Roberts, who was in the Hallmark Hall of Fame production of "Blithe Spirit," loves dangling mod earrings. And her influence is a strong one. During the taping of the recent "Soldier in Love" for the Hallmark series, all the women on the production staff were wearing large, dangling earrings.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

If the total amount of water in all the world's oceans, ice fields, lakes, rivers, soil, rocks and atmosphere were added up, it would equal about 326 cubic miles. One cubic mile is about one trillion gallons of water, says The World Almanac. If the entire supply of water is considered one barrel (55 gallons), then the water in the oceans of the world would be 53 gallons, 1 quart, 1 pint and 3 ounces.

Miss USA Proves Poise

BY FRANK LANGLEY

NEW YORK — Poise is a major attribute for any beauty contest winner as the lovely Maria Remenyi, the reigning Miss USA, recently proved.

At that time, the petite, dark-haired Hungarian-American beauty was subjected to a rush-hour Roman orgy the likes of which these tired eyes have not witnessed in 20 years of strap-hanging. And she withstood it with the ease of a veteran traffic cop in Times Square.

The occasion was the opening of the New York reservations office for Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas.

That massive luxury resort has, I am told, a telephone booth that is approximately the same size as their New York office.

To celebrate the opening of this pint-sized palace, a party was decided upon and Miss Remenyi and I were among the several hundred lucky people to be invited.

That's right, several hundred, for a room that could squeeze in about forty unhappy people.

Getting through the crush of police and pedestrians that surged about the entrance, most of them desperately waving invitations, was project No. 1.

Once inside, you had to wonder why you made the effort. For me, the answer was simple, Miss Remenyi.

Herded in by two Amazonian beauties, draped in loose fitting and revealing toga-type costumes, and several burly Las Vegas types, the tiny Maria was being jostled, jabbed and joked with in brutal subway style when I arrived.

My profuse apologies for suggesting we meet at the orgy were really unnecessary.

"How soon can we leave," she whispered with the smile of a Princess congratulating a commoner on some minor achievement.

"Now" was the reply and we immediately began inching our way out just as we had inched our way in.

Before reaching the door, Maria accepted the best wishes of a dozen or so fellow orgiasts who recognized her as Miss USA.

"Thank you so much" she would murmur over the din, "and don't forget to tune in to the CBS-TV Pageant on May 20."

Having gotten in the plug, she would inch another inch, murmur another murmur and unhook another waist-grabber, til the exit was achieved.

"My goodness," she sighed once on the streets again, "I've never been through anything like that before."

Nor have I. But if it happens again I can only pray for a partner with the poise and personality of Miss Remenyi.

DEMOTION — What was the name of the series that Robert Vaughn starred in before The Man From U.N.C.L.E.? Was it called The Sergeant? —

C. C., St. Paul, Minn.
No, sir. It was called The Lieutenant.

THE COP—Can you tell me what part Larry Hagman of I Dream of Jeannie, played in The Edge of Night? I have watched the show for years but can't place him in it.—Mable Busch, Duluth, Minn.

Larry Hagman played Ed Gibson, the young policeman who became an attorney.

Loves Flying

When Susan Oliver was cast in a recent episode of The Invaders, she was delighted because the story was about airplanes, and she is an enthusiastic aviatrix, about to get a multi-engine license. But then she read the script and discovered she played the airplane-hating wife of a pilot. She was recently one of six crew members in a Boeing 707 simulator during a two-hour "flight." "Danny Kaye and I were snowbound at Kennedy Airport, waiting for a flight to Los Angeles. Danny, you know, loves flying as much as I do. Well, we were talking about planes when a Boeing engineer overheard us and made the suggestion that we try out the simulator."

'To Give Life To the Legend'

NEW YORK — David Wayne figures he has the finest promotion man in the business, Hal Holbrook.

Wayne starred in the May 5 ABC-TV production of "The Legend of Mark Twain."

"Of course," he said recently, "there are those who might say we should not have done this show at this time, right on the heels of Hal's great triumph in Mark Twain Tonight."

"But actually, there is no comparison between the two shows, and I can even conceive of Hal's magnificent performance as a marvelous promotion for us."

"Hal's characterization was essentially a recreation of the man himself. Ours is far different."

"We have attempted to give life to the legend of the man by dramatizing excerpts from five of his famous works, and documenting the waning years of his life."

The talented actor might have said a bit more about this production that we would like to add for him.

There is a distinct possibility that if Twain were alive to cast the performer who would narrate the program and portray a character in each of the five sequences, from Huckleberry Finn to A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's court, he might have picked a different performer.

The reason is quite simple. Wayne darn near steals the show from Twain.

The diminutive actor with the king-size capabilities skips from one character to another with a deftness that has only one description: professional explosively quite.

DAVID WAYNE

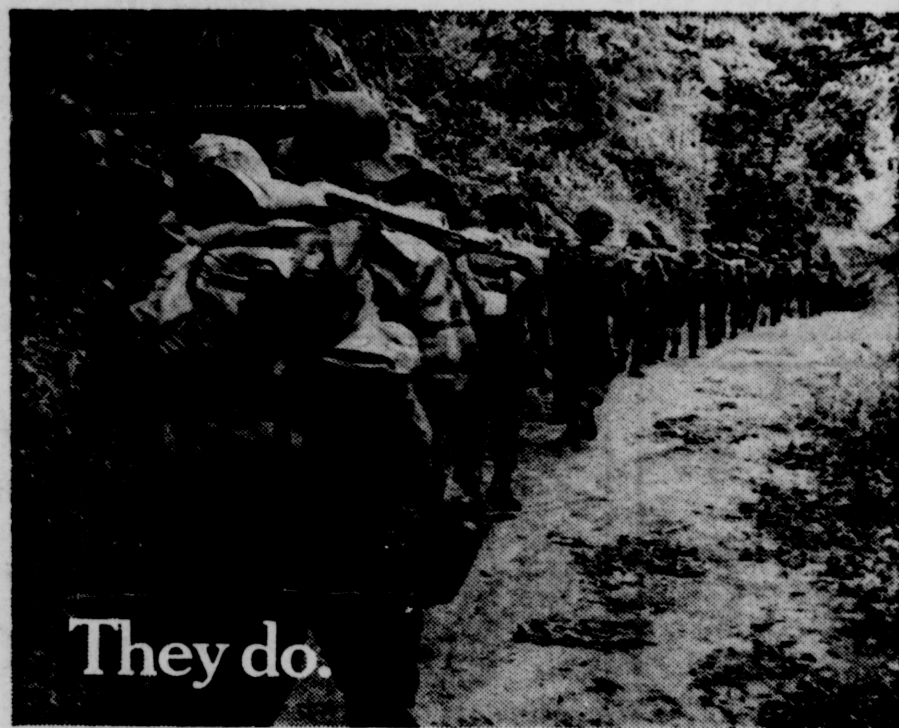

As a villainous Mississippi slave hunter in the Huckleberry Finn episode, he is the personification of evil. As the scheming gambler of The Celebrated Jumping Frog of Calaveras County, his cunning is explosive ly quite.

And as the river boat captain who trained young Sam Clemens, he is the picture of paternalism.

To top it all off, his narration constantly points up his versatility by returning him to his real self after each sequence. Yet he does not allow this to detract from the production of the tapestry of the legend.

Well said, Mr. Wayne. But we still don't know who comes off better Wayne or Twain.

Used Cars Are Billion $ Business

The owner said it was a nice little car. To prove it, the '62 Corvair had a New York State inspection sticker. At that point "Your Dollar's Worth" took over. The car was put through a round of tests to determine what the used car buyer knows — and should know — about his automobile. And at each stage, a camera crew recorded the findings.

These findings will be contained on "Used Cars: Wheels and Deals," a half-hour program which will be presented on Channel 17 Wednesday, May 10 at 10:00 p. m.

Each month since its inception in March last year, "Your Dollar's Worth" has turned its attention to a big business. This month is no exception. In 1966, the used car market exceeded $10 billion, involving purchases by some 16 million motorists. And, as in most subjects tackled by "Your Dollar's Worth," used cars represented an area in which consumers know considerably less than they should.

In testing the 1962 Corvair, executive producer Harry McCarthy stated with an inspection station in Secaucus, New Jersey, (One of 34 States which have a system for judging road-worthy cars, New Jersey is considered perhaps the most thorough and most efficient.) There, while the N.E.T. cameras followed it down the concrete strip, inspectors checked its credentials, flashed its lights on a beam-regulator, and tested its brakes and steering while an inspection official described each step. The car failed on two minor counts — low headlights and a brake that required adjustment.

The same afternoon, the car was taken to a used car lot in Hastings, New York. Standing coatless on a bone-chilly day, the dealer elaborated on the used car market, while autos nested around him with window stickers announcing "A Honey For The Money" and "Tip Top Value." He then indicated the market value of the particular 1962 Corvair — $100! (Its book value, N.E.T. learned two days later in the Washington office of the National Automobile Dealers Association is $550 wholesale, $325 retail.)

"People generally don't know what they're getting when they buy a used car," says McCarthy. "That's just what we set out to prove with the Corvair. The way things stand, even a state with a good inspection system like New Jersey can't really determine whether a car belongs on the road. But if people follow the suggestions made on

A New Star For Old Series

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD—A funny thing happened to Peter Graves on his way to next season's television programming.

"The strange workings of this television business," he called it but he was putting it mildly.

A few months ago he starred in the pilot of Call to Danger, a new show for CBS-TV. His role was that of a spy for a secret government agency who consults a computer every week to find a civilian perfectly suited for a dangerous mission.

In the pilot the mission at hand demanded a fellow who was a combination locksmith, barber and amateur stamp collector. The computer, of course turned up such a fellow.

If Call to Danger sounded more than somewhat like Mission: Impossible CBS-TV wasn't knocking it. As Fred Allen once said, "Television is the sincerest form of imitation."

Well, anyway, Graves finally received the good news. Call to Danger would be on CBS-TV starting in September.

"But three days later," he said, "I received another call—Call to Danger was OUT."

That's when this funny thing happened to Graves.

After seeing him in Call to Danger, the brass decided he was just the fellow to replace the departing star of another CBS-TV series.

So now you know why Peter this show — and if they bring a mechanic along when they buy — they stand to make the best deal."

"Every show we call on the manufacturers and their organizations to defend their products on the air. It's not as if we're stacking the deck," says McCarthy. "It's just a matter of helping the consumer to get his dollar's worth."

PETER GRAVES

Graves (surprise) will take over Steve Hill's role next season as the boss of those experts in danger on Mission: Impossible.

Instead of getting the imitation, Graves hit the jackpot, winding up in the original for the show's second season.

As yet, he says, he and producer Bruce Geller have only "vaguely explored" his new character of Jim Phelps in the show.

"It takes a while to establish a character," he says. "Richard Boone once told me he didn't really get the character in Have Gun-Will Travel until the 16th show. You just plant a seed, water it, let the sun shine on it and hope it blooms."

This is Graves' fourth series, with Fury, Whiplash and Court Martial behind him. The latter, he thinks, was the best of the three "but it didn't have a chance because it came on in ABC's third season."
